TUGWELL TALK REVEALS FDR'S BUDGET POLICY

BALANCED BY 1938 MAY BE PARTY SLOGAN

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1935, by Escanaba Daily Press

Washington, Oct. 30.—Maybe the New Deal is about to start a department of official arithmetic, and maybe it's just a little lack of team-work. But on the same day that Henry Morgenthau, Jr. who is supposed to be secretary of the Treasury was telling the reporters as he came out of the White House that it is "the president's budget" and that he could not, therefore, discuss it and that nothing would be known till January, the Honorable Rex Tugwell, who is supposed to be undersecretary of Agriculture, was telling an audience of enthusiastic democrats at the opposite end of the country just how the budget is to be balanced by 1938. This bit of confusion of function caused no end of gossip here today, but, if Mr. Tugwell's figures are right, much will be forgiven.

David Lawrence.

Mr. Morgenthau's reticence, or rather reluctance, to discuss figures has been disappointing but understandable, since he will be held accountable for his predictions by an alert public opinion. But Mr. Tugwell's frankness in explaining just how the fiscal position of the federal government is going to work out so that the debt will be a mere trifle, comparatively speaking, would be the occasion today for another "breathing spell" of conservative joy were it not for thefact that it is hard to puzzle out just what his arithmetic means, if the Associated Press has correctly quoted his speech.

Figures Analyzed

Mr. Tugwell gives the deficit of The New Deal till the balanced budget era begins as about $11,600,000,000, when his totals should have been $12,200,000,000. He announced, for instance, that the ordinary expenses of the government will add up to $19,200,000,000 and the expenses for relief and recovery may add up to $15,000,000,000, which, according to Old Deal arithmetic, should provide a total of $34,200,000,000. Then Mr. Tugwell is quoted as saying that the ordinary receipts would be $22,000,000,000. According to Old Deal arithmetic, this would leave a deficit of $12,200,000,000, instead of the Tugwell deficit of $11,600,000,000.

There's a difference here somewhere of about $600,000,000, which is enough to pay almost the entire electric light bill of the American home for a year.

But, supposing Mr. Tugwell has been inaccurately reported and using his deficit of $11,600,000,000, it is interesting to note that he promptly subtracts what he calls the "recoverables", amounting to $5,600,000,000. This means that he expects all the loans made during the supposedly incompetent Hoover administration and the selfish Old Deal to be repaid at 100 cents on the dollar and help pay for the New Deal, and that he is also expecting all the New Deal loans of the reconstruction finance corporation to be repaid al-

Montana Reports Sub Zero Weather

Seattle, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Arctic blew its frigid breath down on the Pacific coast and the far west again today, spreading out-of-season winter over wide areas.

At Helena, Mont., 71 years old today the thermometer dipped to 8.2 degrees below zero the coldest October day on record. The earth beneath it quivered again as workers hurried to repair homes damaged by the recent disastrous quakes.

Havre, Mont., ordinarily one of the coldest spots on the United States map, reported 4 below zero, but Glacier Park station in Montana reported 16 below.

Killing frosts appeared in the coast states. Thin ice was found in places in California's Sacramento valley and damage to unharvested fruit crops were feared.

Government weather forecasters blamed the cold wave on a great mass of cold air blown down from the Polar regions by a storm.

SELASSIE WILL UNEARTH ARMS

Huge Quantities of Guns and Ammunition in Secret Places

BY JAMES A. MILLS
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Addis Ababa, Oct. 30 (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie today ordered all buried arms dating from the time of his uncle, Emperor Menelik, unearthed for distribution to reserve troops.

Thousands of American Winchesters are included in the caches.

Fearful that Ethiopia would at any time be invaded, Menelik made a regular practice of burying huge quantities of arms and munitions. The place was known only to himself and a few trusted officials. He led his warriors to victory over Italy at Aduwa 40 years ago.

Most of the buried rifles have never been used. Their range is considerably shorter than modern rifles. On the other hand, the wounds they inflict are said to be almost incurable because of the huge bore of the guns.

Ethiopians prefer close-in fighting and shooting at close range.

Preparations for the establishment of a base hospital behind Ethiopia's southern front, directed by an American medical missionary, were pushed today.

Dr. Robert W. Hockman, United Presbyterian missionary, left for Jijiga, 300 miles behind the southern war zone, to supervise the hospital. With him went six American-made ambulances and other medical equipment.

Gordon Westcott Dies In Hollywood

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 30 (AP)—Gordon Westcott, 31, handsome, athletic character actor, died today of basal skull fracture received last Sunday in a polo game.

Wescottt was playing with the M-G-M polo team opposing one led by Walt Disney, creator of Mickey Mouse, when his horse fell on him, crushing him. He did not regain consciousness.

The actor's real name was Myrthus Hickman.

Westcott's most recent productions were "Two Fisted," with Lee Tracy, and "This Is the Life," in which he was the father of Jane Withers. Other of his films included "Fog Over Frisco," "Registered Nurse," "Convention City," "Voltaire," "Dark Hazard" and "Lilly Turner."

Potato Inspection Stations Planned

Lansing, Oct. 30. (AP)—State Agricultural Commissioner James F. Thomson announced today the department has established eight potato inspection stations on trunk line highways.

The stations will be located in Clare, Ionia, Arenac, Crawford, Mason, Lapeer and Kent counties, two in the latter county.

Truckers will be compelled to visit their nearest inspection depot and obtain a certificate showing their cargoes meet with the standards set up by the farmers themselves and the agricultural department. They will be forbidden to transport potatoes from a production area without such a certificate.

Ishpeming Y. M. C. A. To Close Its Doors

Ishpeming, Mich., Oct. 30. (AP)—The Ishpeming Y. M. C. A., established 28 years ago, will close its doors Friday, because of lack of public interest and dwindling financial support. For many years, before the Ishpeming high school gymnasium was built, it was the headquarters for school athletes.

TAX REVISION AT THIS TIME UNDESIRABLE

GOVERNOR ADVISES AGAINST INCOME LEVY NOW

Big Rapids, Mich., Oct. 30 (AP)—Governor Frank A. Fitzgerald carried into the camp of state income tax exponents tonight a warning against "soaking the rich."

The governor, speaking before a convention of the state Grange here, insisted that Michigan's taxation system should not be revised at a moment crucial to industrial recovery. The Grange has been a strong adherent of a state income tax program.

Pointing to industrial recovery in the state, the governor said:

"Nothing could be more disastrous, in my opinion, than to throttle this revival. It would be like knocking down a convalescent, throwing him on his back again at a time when he's just laid his crutches away.

Repeats Campaign Pledge

"For this reason, I view with apprehension any agitation which may tend to give the impression that we are about to reshape our tax structure.

"If the tax system must be changed; if business is to be called upon to bear a heavier burden, let's wait until business is back on its feet."

Governor Fitzgerald went over his nine months of state stewardship with the grangers, pointing out what has been accomplished by the present administration, and assuring that the state is operating on a pay-as-you-go basis.

He reiterated his campaign pledge of 1934 that there shall be no new state taxes, and pointed out that he has fought to keep that pledge.

Endorsement of the Townsend old age pension plan and the continuance of the agricultural adjustment administration farm program were swept to the center of the stage for Thursday's session.

Leaders of the Grange revealed that a sharp battle over both were impending, and took steps Wednesday to head off a threatened resolution advocating approval of the Townsend plan.

The convention selected Sturgis for the 1936 convention and re-elected N. P. Hull, of Lansing; A. W. Thompson, of Iron Mountain, and Ollie Hubbell, of Freeland, to the executive committee.

Roosevelt Says Clergy's Replies Very Interesting

Washington, Oct. 30. (AP)—President Roosevelt told newsmen today that he found extremely interesting the replies to his bid to the clergy for "counsel and advice" on the new deal's program.

The letters, the president disclosed, still were rolling into the White House at a rate of about 200 a day and had stacked up into piles of thousands.

Whether praise or condemnation has been the predominating tone in the vast batch of replies was not learned. The White House gave no indication of an intention to make the letters public.

The president said he was proceeding with the reading of the letters, hundreds of which arrived during his recent trip to the coast.

Lansing Woman Is Found Asphyxiated

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 30. (AP)—Roy C. Gleason, city fireman, drove the department's rescue squad to his own home today and found his wife, Letty, 30, dead of asphyxiation.

Coroner Harold C. Leadley said he was informed she was prompted to commit suicide because of fear that her husband might lose his job if a 15-mill tax limitation amendment should be adopted in an election here this fall.

A 10-year-old son, Richard, crawled into a basement window when he found the doors locked and found his mother dead in the gas-filled kitchen.

New Yorkers Planning Reception For Walker

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—Its memory fleeting, its sympathies quickly warmed, the big town whipped up an enthusiastic greeting tonight for James J. Walker upon his arrival home tomorrow.

Obscured by three years of self-imposed exile in Europe, the personality of "Goodtime" Jimmy Walker was slowly emerging more and more vividly in its old colors in New York's mind with each mile the former mayor was brought nearer New York.

When the liner Manhattan, bearing Walker and his wife, the former Betty Compton, reaches quarantine some time after noon tomorrow, outward evidences pointed tonight to the probability that Walker will again be much the old time "Jimmy" to New York.

Resigning under fire of a sensational political investigation into city affairs September 1, 1932, Walker returns tomorrow three years later to what promises to be one of the famous welcomes he himself created back in the lush days of big money and speakeasy tinsel.

A flotilla of at least seven boats will meet the Manhattan down the bay, while a contingent of 2,000 brewers will be massed at the pier to add to the general welcoming hub-bub.

But paradoxically, Tammany Hall, the political organization which nurtured Walker's career, stood cooly aloff tonight from the reception plans. Political memories are long, and while many of the Wigwam planned to be on hand to greet Walker, none courted publicity as members of the official Tammany roster.

Two cutters of the customs service will carry influential personages to the Manhattan's side, together with a corps of reporters, photographers and radio broadcasters.

HUGE BOMBING PLANE CRASHES

Test Pilot Killed and 4 Other Passengers Hurt in Wreck

Dayton, O., Oct. 30 (AP)—America's biggest bombing plane crashed to earth and burst into flames today, injuring fatally one of the five men it carried.

The ship was the Boeing "flying fortress," undergoing tests by the army air corps in preparations for strengthening the nation's air fleet.

The crash killed Major P. P. Hill, chief of the flying branch at Wright field here, and official pilot for the tests of three bombers undergoing trials.

He and four others took the huge bomber aloft today. Its four 700 horsepower engines had barely pulled them 200 feet off the ground before, witnesses said, the two left motors appeared to falter, the two right motors pulled the big ship around in a 180 degree turn, the left wing dipped, and the bomber crashed, still upright but facing a direction almost opposite to that in which it had headed. A wall of flame burst up as it crashed, and then an explosion shattered the wreckage.

Injured Men Rescued

But even before the Wright field ambulance, ever ready for such emergencies, had hurried up, Lieut. L. F. Harmon and R. K. Giovannoli, among the witnesses, had thrown their coats over their heads, buried their faces in their arms, and charged into the flames to drag the bomber's test crew to safety.

The injured were Lieut. Donald L. Putt, 30, Yakima, Wash., co-pilot in the tests; Leslie Tower, chief Boeing test pilot; John Cutting, 28, Wright field test observer, and Mark H. Koogler, 39, Wright field employe.

Tower was burned severely, and the others were less seriously hurt. All will live. Harmon and Giovannoli were slightly burned.

Though an investigation board began work immediately, it had not been learned hours later who was at the controls at the time of the crash, and Wright field officals said that detail would not be clarified until the injured are able to give their testimony.

Consolidations Of Three Auto Labor Unions Considered

Detroit, Oct. 30 (AP)—Representatives of three independent automobile labor unions will assemble here Sunday to consider a consolidation of their forces into a national union that would affect an estimated 38,000 workers in the automobile field.

The three unions include the Mechanics Educational Society of America, a tool and die makers organization claiming a membership of 10,000 workers; the Automotive Industrial Workers Association which claims a membership of 26,000, and the Associated Automobile Workers of America, claiming a membership of 2,000.

The consolidation of forces, if carried through, would put an organization of automobile workers in the field independent of the new International Union of Auto Workers established recently under the guidance of the American Federation of Labor.

Grecian Royalists Certain Of Victory

Athens, Oct. 30 (AP)—Public places of Athens were plastered tonight with posters officially procalming Sunday the date for plebiscite in which the men of Greece will register their preference for a kingdom or a republic.

At the same time officials of the present royalist government, which seized power through a coup, discussed plans for welcoming back former King George. They are confident of an overwhelming victory.

Political circles, however, were agitated by unconfirmed rumors that the former king, assertedly influenced by observations of the British government, will favor a constitutional monarchy.

Some reports said that George, now in London, in private correspondence had declared himself in favor of a coalition government.

SEA LION STUFFED

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 30 (AP)—The body of Lake Michigan's sea lion, shot recently, will be placed in a glass case in Washington park here. Park officals said a taxidermist already has mounted the carcass.

DOCTOR SAYS WIFE IN HANDS OF KIDNAPERS

POLICE SEARCH FOR MISSING DETROIT WOMAN

BULLETIN

Detroit, Oct. 30 (AP)—Joseph H. McGraw, Windsor, Ont., chiropodist who reported to police tonight his blonde bride of a month had been kidnaped, was quoted by police several hours later as convinced she had left home of her own accord.

Detectives Harry Hogan and Harry Lahser of the special investigation squad said late tonight McGraw told them he had decided Mrs. McGraw had deliberately made her disappearance appear to be a kidnaping.

The detectives said they had determined that Mrs. McGraw had been absent from home since Tuesday. McGraw told them, they said.

Detroit, Oct. 30. (AP)—Dr. J. H. McGraw, Windsor, Ont., chiropodist, asked police tonight to aid in a search for his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Hess McGraw, believed kidnaped.

McGraw told police he received a telephone call from his wife at his Windsor, Ont., office about 5 p. m. and that she told him "Honey, they've got me," before the connection was closed.

McGraw said he hurried to his Detroit apartment, and found Mrs. McGraw absent. A tour of the neighborhood, he said, revealed she had visited a grocery about 1:30 p. m. He said two street cleaners told him they saw a woman seized and placed in a green coupe by two men near the grocery, but did not obtain their names. He said the workers told him the car bore Florida license plates.

Married a Month

McGraw's report was received by police about 6 p. m. and department of justice investigators were asked to aid in the case.

Mrs. McGraw, who is 33 years old, formerly lived at Akron, Ohio. They have been married about a month, her husband said.

McGraw told officers his wife wore five diamonds valued at $3,500.

Sergeant Adam Schriner, of the special investigation squad assigned to the case, said McGraw told him he suspected a former suitor of Mrs. McGraw had participated in the abduction.

Sergeant Schriner said the husband told him an unidentified man had seized Mrs. McGraw at a beer

DIRECT RELIEF TO END NOV. 25

All Employables to Get Jobs in Michigan By That Date

Lansing, Oct. 30 (AP)—The federal public works administration, with $31,000,000 immediately available for state work projects, set November 25 today as the deadline for direct relief in Michigan for employables.

Howard O. Hunter, field representative for WPA and the federal emergency relief administration, said that 101,900 employables now on relief rolls will be given jobs by that date.

Hunter declared that the next week will see a rapid transfer of welfare dependents from the direct relief agency to paid jobs on a network of construction projects in Michigan. The state emergency relief commission reported today that 35,991 employables have been given work relief jobs, 20,000 on WPA projects.

Dr. William Haber, emergency relief director, announced that the state has been given $1,250,000 for the first 15 days in November to bolster the state expenditures on direct relief. Hunter said the federal government is giving direct relief grants for 15 day periods only and expected to cease direct relief by November 30. He expects Michigan to receive another grant. Dr. Harber has asked $3,000,000 for next month.

Hunter estimated that $100,000,000 worth of projects have been approved by the works progress administration for Michigan, and said that sufficient funds have been allocated to the state to complete approximately one-third of them.

"The approved projects are of such varied nature that the impending winter will not impede work relief," Hunter declared. "The work program, under our present plans, should absorb all employables by November 25."

ITALIAN ARMY NEARS MAKALE

Officials Hope Goal Can Be Reached Without Major Battle

BY ANDRUE BERDING
(By The Associated Press)

Adigrat, Ethiopia, Oct. 29 (delayed)—Two columns of Italian troops moved forward toward Makale in northern Ethiopia today without encountering resistance, but Ethiopian warriors tried to push back another Italian force southeast of the Setit river.

Bands of native troops under General Rugero Santini advanced along a small caravan route from Adigrat toward the Italians' next goal, Makale, 50 miles south. Officers of the Italian high command expressed hope they would enter Makale without engaging in the major battle which had been predicted.

Fierce daily engagements have been going on in the Setit river valley, where the Ethiopians were estimated by Italian military authorities to have 13,000 men, of whom 3,000 were said to be in the front trying to dislodge Premier Mussolini's soldiers from their position along the river.

Prepare for Attack

The Ethiopians lost many men in attempts to drive back the Italians, whose casualties were smaller. The Fascist troops poured machine gun fire on the black warriors as they tried to gain possession of the river in that sector, in order to get water for their cattle. Even night raids by the Ethiopians have been frustrated by the Italians' rapid fire from the machinegun nests.

Reports from Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland, said the advance on the southern front continued, and Italian troops were near Gerlogubi. The road from Gorrahei to Gerlogubi was said to be passable for trucks, after a period during which it was made sodden by heavy rains.

Three Ethiopian chieftains were said to be preparing to attack the Italian northern army. Mohammedan chiefs, who reached here by caravan after coming through the Ethiopian lines, reported Ras Kassa, leading a force south of Makale, Ras Seyoum, now facing the Italian central column in the Tambien region, and Ras Ayelu, commander of the black troops in the Setit river area, were making ready for a counter-push.

Mrs. Goodrich's Trial Is Delayed

Detroit, Oct. 30 (AP)—A crowded court docket forced postponement until Friday of the trial of Mrs. Florence Harding Goodrich, accused of being an accessor after the murder of Lilian Gallaher, 11. Mrs. Goodrich was scheduled to be brought up for trial today.

Recorder's Judge Henry S. Sweeny was assigned to preside at the trial but reported that crowded conditions in his court file would necessitate a delay in the case until Friday.

Mrs. Goodrich's husband, Merton Ward Goodrich, was convicted of the killing of the school girl several months ago and committed to the Michigan branch prison at Marquette to serve a life sentence.

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 30 (AP)—Unemployed single men here, organized as the "Single Men's Society," have appealed to the city commission to assist them in obtaining jobs.

PLANE BEING TESTED RUNS INTO HILLTOP

WRECK IS FOLLOWED BY TANK EXPLOSIONS

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 30. (AP)—Four persons were killed tonight when a giant air liner of the United Airlines crashed and exploded on a hilltop six miles south of Cheyenne.

The plane was a test ship which the company sent on a circling tour of the city a few minutes before it crashed.

The officials of the company were informed a gasoline tank exploded when the plane struck the hilltop.

The dead:

M. T. Arnold, chief test pilot of the United Airlines, of Cheyenne, formerly of Chicago.

Abe Cohen, veteran pilot of the Wyoming Air Service of Cheyenne.

Edward Yantiss of the United's instrument crew of Cheyenne.

Harold Kaufman, of Cheyenne, apprentice instrument man of the U. A. L. shops here.

Bodies Badly Mangled

Witnesses said one gasoline tank exploded as the plane struck the hilltop.

Then, they said, the ship bounded high into the air and the second gasoline tank apparently exploded.

The mangled bodies were found scattered among the bits of wreckage.

Police patrol cars, ambulances and fire department pieces moved with difficulty through a jam of sightseers' cars to the wreckage strewn hilltop.

It was estimated the plane was traveling 170 miles an hour when it fell.

Officials of the UAL offices here said they did not know what caused the crash.

The plane was a twin motored Boeing, and had been used for test purposes only.

The silver grey air liner had been away from its home port only 25 minutes when it struck the knoll on the broken plains land which borders the Cheyenne-Denver highway.

The crash tonight was the second disastrous air tragedy in the Cheyenne region this month. On October 7 a giant airliner of the UAL crashed 13 miles west of here and carried 12 persons to death on the hills of Crow Creek valley similar in appearance to the site of tonight's crash.

Truck farmers who live on the outskirts of Cheyenne said they saw the plane explode as it hit, described it as leaping high into the air and exploding again as it smashed in a mass of darting flames.

Launch Delayed At Isle Royale

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 30 (AP)—The launch Starling Calumet, 36 hours overdue here from Isle Royale, returned to the Portage entry today. Arthur Tormala, owner of the boat, said he had been delayed at the island by engine trouble.

The Portage canal coast guard began a search for the launch today under direction of Captain Fred Sollman, who set out with a crew of four men to search Lake Superior.

The launch was reported to have left Isle Royale Monday night for the mainland with a cargo of equipment and supplies from the island CCC camp, vacated Sunday by 100 workers. A captain Colonde and an unidentified engineer took the launch to the island.

The CCC workers were removed by the coast guard boat Crawford, and the launch was to bring off supplies left from the camp.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR CRIPPLES

Three Agencies Suggest Governor Call Extra Session

Lansing, Oct. 30 (AP)—Agencies seeking a solution to the state's crippled and afflicted children hospitalization problem urged today that a special session of the legislature be called if the state administration board is unable to finance medical care.

A resolution to that effect was adopted by representatives of the State Hospital association, the State Probate Judges association, and the State Medical Society meeting here. It was presented to Auditor General John J. O'Hara.

O'Hara said that he would pass the recommendation on to Governor Fitzgerald. He called today's conference to point out that only $400,000 remains of this year's legislative appropriation for the care of crippled and afflicted children, and that sum will last only two months.

The three associations went on record as favoring more stringent regulations regarding hospitalization of the state wards, a more rigid physical examination of all cases, and the immediate treatment of emergency cases only. To that end they agreed to the appointment of three doctors from the State Medical Society in each county to pass on the necessity of immediate medical aid for applicants named by probate judges.

The associations insisted that medical aid is an absolute necessity for many of the needy, that a crisis in funds has arisen, that it is the duty of state officers to raise the necessary finances, and that surgeons and hospitals should receive a fair rate of compensation for their services.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 30 (AP)—In a semi-secret session today the Purdue football squad polished up several new plays in the last hard workout before the game at Minnesota Saturday. Coach Noble Kizer indicated he intends to use two alternating backfields Saturday to speed the Boilermaker offense.

J. Earle Bishop Pleads Guilty To Charge Of Bigamy

Manistique, Oct. 30. — J. Earle Bishop, manager of Blaney Park tourist resort, pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy before Judge Herbert W. Runnels at Munising yesterday, and was returned to the Schoolcraft county jail here today to await sentence which will be made within a week. It is expected that an investigation will be made before Bishop is sentenced.

The charges against Bishop were filed by his first wife, Emma Sheeley Bishop, whom he married at Philadelphia in 1923. The complaints alleged that Bishop married Marie Knuth in Illinois in 1926, without getting a divorce from his first wife, and that on September 18 of this year he was married again, this time to Marie Elizabeth Shaad at Sault Ste. Marie.

Winter Will Come Late But Will Be With Us Longer

Ludington, Mich., Oct. 30 (AP)—The muskrats are at it again, and Leander (Duz) Brant, 75 year old weather prophet who reads winter weather signs in the way the rodents fashion their dwellings, says it's going to be a hard winter.

"There'll be much snow and rain, with a majority of rain," Brant said today. "Can tell because the muskrats are building their houses high—much higher than usual, which shows they're providing against unusually high water in the lakes and rivers. Such high water can come only from a great amount of rain and melting snow."

"There's be little cold weather before the holidays because the snakes, grasshoppers and flies are still out and around when they should all be in hibernation of one kind or another," he added. "The winter, which will arrive late, probably will be long, with a late spring."

Flint (AP)—Plans were mapped for a traffic safety campaign today as representatives of law enforcement agencies met with civic groups. Extended law enforcement and a program of education designed to reach every Genesee county home were discussed.

AMERICANS WIN LOTTERY PRIZES

United States Residents Get 43.5% of Sweepstakes Pot

Dublin, Irish Free State, Oct. 30 (AP)—The horses which galloped home 1, 2, 3 today in the Cambridgeshire at Newmarket gave a bonus of nearly a million and a half dollars to American holders of tickets in the Irish hospitals sweepstakes.

Thus residents of the United States drew from the annual lottery a total of $2,729,000, or about 43.5 percent of the pot.

Before the running of the race lucky American holders were assured of $1,305,100 and to this was added today the neat sum of $1,423,900 by the winning horses.

(Officials of the sweepstakes do not announce whole sums paid into the lottery, but an estimate based on those figures for previous years indicate that residents of the United States paid out approximately $3,800,000 in this year's lottery. The total prize fund was $6,490,000.)

Six Americans held tickets on Commander III, winner of the race, and each of them won $147,300. They were:

WOMEN TO JOIN ITALY'S BATTLE

Housewives Instructed to Feed Families on Homegrown Food

BY JOHN EVANS
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Rome, Oct. 30. (AP)—Premier Mussolini, in two emergency, warlike decrees, drafted Italy's womanhood to fight league sanctions and ordered tonight a census of the mercantile marine to determine the strength of the naval reserve.

Italy's merchant ships will be armed, if necessary, said the decree. In well-informed circles belief was expressed that by this step Il Duce intended to groom his seapower for a possible war in Europe.

All shipowners and captains were told to be ready to give information about their vessels to a mixed committee from the navy, war and communications departments.

Carry "Defensive Arms"

Those ships designed as naval auxiliaries will "carry defensive arms" in case of war, the decree stipulated.

Italy, it was recalled, has never dignified her African operations by the title of "war."

A commission of experts was provided to estimate Italy's mercantile marine resources and make use of them in case of "war." The new law requires that owners and captains of all ships cooperate in the work.

At the same time in authoritative quarters it was said Italy's "reprisal" campaign against sanctionist countries would not extend to the United States. America's neutrality policy is not construed as an effort to inflict unilateral hardships on Italy.

To the women Il Duce entrusted the task of feeding their families on home-grown food and making exports from sanctionist countries unnecessary.

War mothers and widows were chosen to direct the "house by house" organization. By this Il Duce wanted the allied countries of the great war to realize their sanctions are striking at the families who fought for them.

An official spokesman, at the same time, called sanctions an "inhuman" attack on Italy's civil population.

"Those who will suffer as a consequence of the sanctions will be children, women, the sick and the poor," he said.

Prison Association Leader Is Woman

Atlanta, Oct. 30 (AP)—The American Prison association today elected a woman—Mrs. Blanche L. La Du of Minneapolis—its president for the first time in the 65 years of its history and selected Chicago and Philadelphia as its next two convention cities.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was unable to attend the convention here, was re-elected a vice president.

Mrs. La Du is a member of the state board of control of Minnesota, which has charge of all prisons and similar institutions in the state.

Although not present at the convention, she telegraphed her acceptance from Ferguson Falls, Minn.

She has had much to do with advancing the Minnesota institutional plan.

A motion by Sanford Bates, director of the U. S. bureau of prisons, was carried providing for a committee to set up plans for a "well-financed, year-round organization.

Loan On Corn Crop Is 45c A Bushel

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The agricultural department announced today a 45 cent a bushel loan on this year's corn crop, appending to the loans requirements which Secretary Wallace said "might or might not" be the beginning of his ever normal granary plan.

The commodity credit corporation, Wallace reported, has asked the Reconstruction corporation for a miximum of $150,000,000 to finance the loan to farmers who signed the 1935 corn-hog adjustment contracts.

The loan, the announcement said, will be made available on field corn that has been husked and stored in the ear in suitable cribs in accordance with the laws of the state in which it is located.

Loans will be made on corn which, if shelled, would grade number three or better. The grade requirement in 1933 and 1934 was number four. The loan rate last year was 55 cents a bushel and in 1933 was 45 cents.

TUGWELL TALK REVEAL'S FDR'S BUDGET POLICY

so at par.

Three Billion Deficit

Anyway this would leave about $6,000,000,000, and then Mr. Tugwell subtracts the "write-up" in gold, which amounts to $3,000,000,000, and he remarks that "from an apparent deficit of $11,500,000,000, a realistic calculation comes down to a real deficit of $3,000,000,000."

Now Mr. Tugwell didn't explain what this write-up really means or just how "realistic" it is, for he just called it a "gold-devaluation profit" and didn't say any more about it. Actually the treasury just decided one day that gold was worth much more than it had been valued and hence used the famous "write-up" system, for which various public utility holding companies have been castigated by the New Deal during the last few years. The utilities would decide that a certain property had enhanced in value and they would justify their "write-up" on the basis of alleged increases in valuation. Somewhere along the line the investors had their securities devalued and the over-optimistic guesses as to true value have now furnished us with a drastic utility law which restrains the utilities from ever doing it again. Hence the action of the New Deal in "writing up" gold and calling it profits and then using it as a means of wiping out debt is a bit inconsistent, ethically speaking.

There is nothing, for instance, to prevent Mr. Tugwell from going a step further and saying that the mere $3,000,000,000 left by his realistic calculation can be wiped out by another devaluation or "write-up" in the price of gold, and then we would have no deficite at all for the New Deal's operations during the whole time it has been in power. That would not be very encouraging to those who have to face higher costs of living, or, to put it another way, decreased buying power of their dollars or their government bonds, but nevertheless it explains the Tugwell philosophy of debt repudiation.

Less Relief Emphasized

There is something far more significant in the Tugwell prophecies about the size of the next two budgets. For, taking his table of figures as having at least the authenticity which such a prominent New Dealer would be expected to furnish, even though he might be for the moment usurping the powers of the Secretary of the Treasury, the trend toward lower and lower relief expenses is emphasized.

If one takes the estimate for the two coming fiscal years and subtracts the ordinary expenses, the remainder would indicate, according to the Tugwell forecast, only $2,300,000,000 for relief and recovery, or less than $1,150,000,000 a year, which is a very splendid projection to anticipate.

The latest figures show that the expenses for relief and recovery in 1935 have exceeded 1934 and are running ahead even at this time when the President has been announcing a very heavy increase in re-employment. Just what it all means to the future is impossible to say, but the Tugwell prediction of a balanced budget in 1938 is good news, even though it has not yet been officially confirmed by Secretary Morgenthau. For the general belief is that Mr. Tugwell would not have used the figures if the president and not authorized them and that the New Deal slogan of the 1936 campaign is going to be "A Balanced Budget by 1938—we planned it that way."

SPUD CONTROL LAW DEFENDED

Growers from 11 States Express Support for Measure

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Potato growers and handlers from 11 eastern states expressed today their support of the Warren potato control law.

Called here to get first-hand information on the provisions of the act which sets up a compulsory system of production control, the potato men heard chiefs of the farm administration predict lower costs to consumers through stabilization of production.

Chester C. Davis, farm administrator, announced meanwhile that potato allotments will be made before the November 1 deadline.

Indications were AAA officials planned to make public tomorrow the allotments, showing the quantity of potatoes which can be produced in each state without being subject to the three-fourths of a cent a pound tax which goes into effect on production after December 1.

The state quotas will be broken down by counties and then by farmers to determine production upon which tax exempt stamps would be issued under the control act.

Davis said plans were being made for a referendum among potato growers on the compulsory act. The act provides for its operation for a year with a referendum to determine whether it should be continued. Davis said, however, it seemed a good plan to sample the sentiment now.

States represented in the conference included Virginia, Georgia, Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee, Delaware, North Carolina, Maryland, South Carolina, Florida and New Jersey.

Young Orang-Utan Is Gaining Nicely

Chicago, Oct. 30 (AP)—The eight day old orang-utan displayed such surprising vigor today that Lincoln park officials decided he could carry a name henceforth.

De Vry died a year ago in Los Angeles.

Zoo attendants kept a constant supply of warm milk in the mother's cage and Young "Cy" now was getting an apparently adequate nourishment via Nancy's mouth needing system.

Owosso, Mich., Oct. 30 (AP)—George Hall, 40-year-old proprietor of a lunchroom, was stabbed eight times in the back, head and neck today as a result, police said, of a dispute with a neighbor over the ownership of a chicken.

Physicians who treated Hall at Memorial hospital termed his wounds critical.

ALLEGED BANK ROBBER NABBED

Wife of Second Suspect Also Arrested at Sebewaing

Caro, Mich., Oct. 30 (AP)—A man identified as a participant in the Deford bank robbery last September 9 was under arrest tonight, along with the wife of a second suspect, who is sought.

In custody were Mart Wise, 23, and Mrs. Margaret Lawe, also 23, both of Sebewaing. The man sought is Vern Lawe.

Also held was Robert Nugent, 35, of Saginaw, who, Sheriff George F. Jeffrey said, is suspected of planning a series of bank robberies in the Michigan thumb district with Wise and Lawe.

Sheriff's officers and state police took Wise and Mrs. Lawe into custody last night at Sebewaing, but withheld the information until this afternoon.

In the meantime, Sheriff Jeffrey said, Mr. and Mrs. George McIntyre, cashier and assistant cashier of the Deford bank, identified Wise as the man who covered them with a pistol during the robbery, while the second robber scooped $637.50 from the cash drawer.

The sheriff said that Mrs. Lawe told the officers that her husband and Wise were the robbers. The woman issued an appeal to her husband to surrender and clear her of any complicity in the robbery. She said her husband told her of the robbery only after it had occurred.

Sheriff Jeffrey said he had learned that Lawe, Wise and Nugent had planned to rob a bank at Reese, Mich., last Saturday. He said Nugent was to have stolen an automobile in Saginaw for the flight, but that for some undisclosed reason the plan was abandoned.

RELIEF GRANTS MAY CONTINUE

State Commission Will Carry On; Michigan Asks $3,000,000

Delay in the transfer of employable persons from relief rolls to WPA work projects probably will necessitate modification of the government's plan to end relief grants by Nov. 1, according to word received by Arthur Gilbert, Delta county relief administrator, from William Haber, state administrator.

At the last meeting of the Delta county board of supervisors, it was estimated that the relief expenditures in this county would amount to $23,740 a month, of which the state would stand 55 to 60 per cent, leaving about $10,000 a month for the county to appropriate. No action was taken by the board, for the reason that tax allocations were already made, and the county tax income left no room for added appropriations. Relief in this county for the 12-month period ending with October amounted to over $800,000, according to the county ERA report.

In Michigan about 20,000 of the 130,000 employables on relief have been transferred to date. In view of this situation the Emergency Relief Commission has requested a federal grant of $3,000,000 for general relief through November.

Even on this basis, however, continued reductions in relief expenditures will be necessary.

Meantime the present State Relief Commission, at the request of the governor, will continue to carry on as in the past with such funds as are available.

In recognition, however, of the increased responsibility which local communities must assume when federal aid is finally withdrawn, the State Relief Commission has under consideration plans for giving county boards of supervisors representation on the relief commissions of their respective counties. Details have not been fully worked out, but will be announced in the near future, State Relief Administrator Haber says.

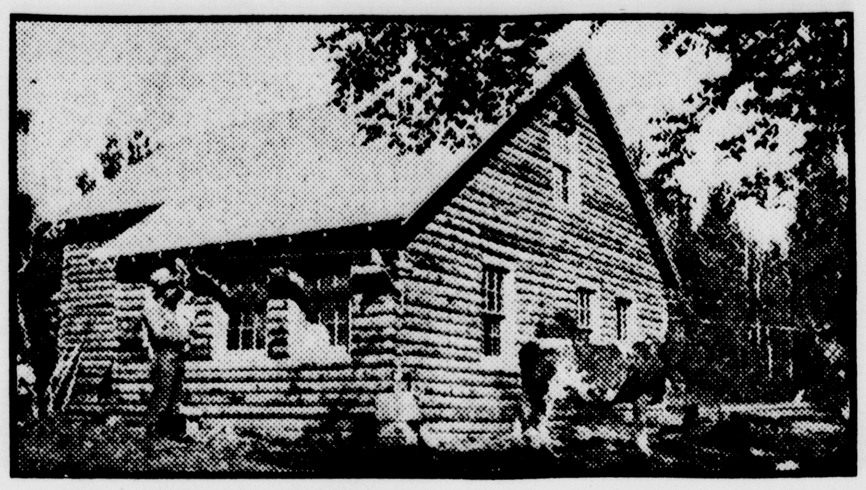
U. P. Folks in Matanuska



Here is a picture of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Larsh and family, formerly of Iron Mountain, who went with the contingent of Michigan colonists to the Matanuska valley. Photographs of various scenes on the farm were sent by them to Mrs. Arthur Guntly of Turin.

The cow, shown in the above picture, gives five quarts a milking, according to Mrs. Larsh.

"Well, what do you think of our home?" Mrs. Larsh asked in a letter to Mrs. Guntly. "It sure is heaven to us. We have seven rooms and a place saved for a bathroom. There is a five-foot arch between the dining and living rooms, and porches in the front and back of the house. We have veneer on the walls. We have our sink under the window. Our front and back door are stained and our windows are painted buff color."

The Larshes are related to Mrs. Ed LaValley, formerly of Mashek, who are also located in the Matanuska colony. A recent article in the Milwaukee Journal described the fine crops on the LaValley farm.

MRS. DEWITT'S TALK ENJOYED

Tells of Women's Growing Interest in Conservation

Newberry, Oct. 30—Mrs. Audrey DeWitt and Frank McClellan of the educational division, Michigan department of conservation, appeared before the Newberry Business and Professional Woman's club Tuesday night at the regular dinner meeting and gave the illustrated lectures, "Wild Wings," "Wild Flowers," and the combined "Moose and Nature's Gangsters" pictures. The dinner was in charge of Kathleen Gormely and her committee and the program under the auspices of the conservation committee.

Mrs. DeWitt's talk was much enjoyed. She told of the growing interest in conservation being shown by women's clubs, especially the Federated Garden clubs and the Business and Professional Woman's clubs. Programs for club meetings can now be obtained from the department, she reports, and outlines of projects which can be carried out by the women are also obtainable. Mr. McClellan gave the talks for the last two films. Although he is well known throughout the peninsula this is the first time he has appeared before this group and his lecture was greately enjoyed.

Members of the local conservation department were the guests of the club. Commissioner and Mrs. J. P. Rahilly, Louis Smith, district supervisor; Bernard McTiver, superintendent of the Lake Superior state forest, and Officers Richard Beach, Joseph Stephensky, Pat Taylor and Harry Surrell, president of the local Lions club, were among the guests. Mr. Surrell brought the club the greetings of the Lions, assured them of the support of his club in any and all projects which the ladies desired to carry out, and asked their cooperation in projects which the Lions were interested. He made special mention of the proposed general hospital for the county and asked that the club members do all that they could to further this project which was, he declared, for the advantage of all.

BREAKING AND ENTERING

Just what will be done with two young "criminals" is not yet known. Word was sent to the local conservation department to come out and take care of some of their charges who were getting into an outside icebox at the Goff place on Little Lake. Traps were set and two young raccoons were taken in the act of theft. They were doubtless led to it by the bad example and training of their parents who are still at large. Gaining entrance to the icebox by using their clever little "hands" they spilled and destroyed all that they could not eat. They are now held at the local headquarters office while their disposition is argued.

140 Men Placed In Jobs In Last Two Week Period

Munising, Oct. 30—The local re-employment service reports 140 men placed in private industry and public projects during the past two weeks. These men have been placed on either of two construction jobs, that of the Walter Toebe company, operating on M-28, or that of Morris Hickey on US-41, up until Saturday, October 26, and the balance of 53 men were placed in private industry and on regular and temporary jobs. During the present week it is anticipated that another 150 men will be placed.

It is also anticipated that jobs in the eastern part of the county will begin in the near future and with these jobs beginning it is expected that many of the unemployed in that part of the county will be absorbed. In addition to the above mentioned contractors now operating, the Peterson Construction company has started a project on US-41.

The National Re-employment Service, of which Howard Starret is state director, is a part of the United States department of labor and besides placing the unemployed on government work is attempting to place men in industry, thus releasing them from public projects. The local office which is under the management of Lloyd Artibee, is located in the old city hall and may be reached by phoning 38-M.

The C. of C. Program

THE Escanaba Chamber of Commerce is now comiling a list of projects to be included in its program of work for the ensuing year. In the development of this program the members are earnestly solicited to make suggestions on the questionnaires that were mailed to them this week.

Accomplishments of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce had their beginnings in many instances in ideas suggested by members of this organization. Conditions are constantly changing in this community, offering new opportunities for developments that will redound to the benefit of Escanaba citizens.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce can rightfully boast of an impressive list of achievements since its establishment in 1921. Its influence has been felt throughout the Upper Peninsula, and in some instances throughout the state; for example, its pioneering campaign for equal educational opportunity which was largely responsible for the enactment of the Turner school aid law, the forerunner of the present Thatcher-Saur law.

Citizens who are interested in the future welfare of their community can perform no better public service than to earnestly endeavor to suggest worthwhile projects for the next year's program of work of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

WPA Funds Released

WORD has been received that Comptroller General McCarl has released funds for a number of WPA projects in Escanaba, Gladstone and other communities of the Upper Peninsula.

It is now optimistically expected that the long-delayed work relief program will get under way here within a week. Officials report that there is considerable "red tape" that must be still unwound from Lansing to the local community. There is a certain procedure to follow to purchase the materials for the various projects and other details must be attended to.

The unfortunate aspect of the WPA situation is that the repeated delays will postpone the launching of many projects after the ideal construction season has passed. While some projects can be carried on equally as well in winter, there are many that will prove more costly during the cold weather season.

There is one assuring feature, however. The projects that are receiving approval are on the whole those that will be of some lasting economic and social benefit to the community.

Inviting Prohibition

GOVERNOR FITZGERALD'S open charges that liquor interests are contributing to a slush fund to wage a fight against the 1 a. m. closing hour gives additional evidence that the abhorrent conditions which brought on prohibition are reappearing in Michigan.

It will be recalled that it was the liquor industry's meddling into politics that was largely responsible for the enactment of dry laws in the various states and finally the adoption of the Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution.

Since repeal, the liquor interests have been given more privileges than were offered under the old saloon days, but greedily they are seking even greater liberalization of the regulations.

But the handwriting is already on the wall. The Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Michigan Anti-Saloon League are again showing much activity and attracting many adherents to the cause. At the annual convention of the Michigan Grange, one of the state's strongest farmers' organizations, in Big Rapids this week there is much denunciation of present liquor conditions. A re-enactment of the drastic Warner-Cramton saloon act, for instance, was advocated by C. H. Bramble, state master of the Grange.

The liquor interests, it appears, are again exhibiting that blindness of judgment that incited the prohibition wave years ago. They do not seem to grasp the fact that there is still some sense of decency in the makeup of the American people.

Deer Poachers Are Busy

NEWS stories published within the last several days indicate that there is much activity on the part of deer poachers in this district.

A calf was shot by mistake on a Ford River farm. The lens of a lighthouse were broken, unintentionally or not, by a hunter's bullet. Others are arrested for headlighting and carrying rifles in deer areas.

This is the critical period for the deer herd. This is the time when extra wardens are needed to curb the illegal slaughter of these animals. Undoubtedly, there is much more illegal killing now than during the open hunting season.

The conservation department reports that some members of the fire fighting force have been shifted over to game law enforcement and that night patrols will be carried on for the next several weeks.

It is hoped that funds can be provided to maintain a staff of conservation officers that will be sufficiently large to effectively cope with this problem.

That Economic Survey

THERE seems to be some misunderstanding as to what actually occurred at the last session of Congress with regard to a bill providing for the appropriation of $200,000 for an economic survey of the Upper Peninsula, including a preliminary examination of the feasibility of the Au Train canal project.

It has been stated on various occasions that Congressman Hook of the Twelfth district introduced such a measure and that it secured the approval of Congress. Inquiry by the Press at the House document room, the clerk of the House rivers and harbors committee and the clerk of the House appropriations committee in Washington fails to determine that this development occurred.

The rivers and harbors bill passed by the last session did contain a clause authorizing a preliminary examination and survey of the Au Train canal. No appropriation was made in connection with this bill, however. The third deficiency bill, which might have carried such an appropriation, which but was killed by Huey Long's filibuster, has been checked, and it contains no mention of funds for the economic survey of the Upper Peninsula and the Au Train canal.

The division of rivers and harbors of the War department, however, reports that the preliminary examination, authorized by the rivers and harbors bill, depends upon the outcome of the hearing to be held in Escanaba Nov. 6. If the hearing reveals that a survey is justifiable, it was explained that necessary funds, which are far less than $200,000, incidentally, will be provided from the standing appropriations for such work. The extent of the survey to be made will be determined by the results of the preliminary examination, and that funds for the survey will come from the same lump sum appropriations.

The War department further explained that the survey, if made, will include some economic items, such as traffic to be anticipated on such a canal, but would not be in any sense a comprehensive economic survey of the Upper Peninsula. This information is offered to correct any wrong impression that might have been caused by news stories appearing in this and other publications.

Receive Bonuses Soon

SUGAR beet growers, of which there are about one hundred and sixty in Delta county, are scheduled to receive their first benefit payment under the AAA program shortly after Nov. 1.

The sugar beet adjustment plan is one that becomes least involved in controversies over the Agricultural Adjustment Act. This is probably because sugar beet farmers are not required to reduce production in order to receive the benefits, but are paid the bonuses for each ton produced in amounts based on the U. S. sugar price.

MICHIGAN'S appearance and success —in the eastern football engagement with Columbia is a reminder of the time when Michigan met Harvard and an Upper Peninsula lad was the goat. Three-legged Maulbetsch was one of the best ground gainers in the conference. Tommy Hughitt of Escanaba was a team mate of Maulbetsch and quarterback of the Michigan team. Hughitt called Maulbetsch's signal in the shadow of Harvard's goal and other Michigan player took the ball. Michigan was stopped and lost. Hughitt was blamed for not giving the ball to Maulbetsch, but it wasn't his fault. Yet he was the goat for a long time.

Next time, when they want to get support for Rushton, which is not difficult to obtain, they should not keep it a secret.

It costs Ontonagon county about a dollar per capita to maintain law and order. In the budget for the fiscal year, the county board set aside $2,500 for circuit court, $600 for justice court, $2,800 for jail maintenance and $6,000 for the sheriff. That runs the figure to $11,900, without taking into account a lot of little incidentals that bring the figure higher. The population of Ontonagon county in the last census was 11,114.

Your Nation's Affairs

BY J. E. LE ROSSIGNOL
Dean, College of Business, Administration, University of Nebraska

President Roosevelt said, in his Fremont address referring to the agricultural situation in March, 1933, "I was not meeting a theory, I was meeting a condition." For all of that, many farmers of Nebraska, while conscious of their condition then and now, are much inclined to theorize about it and to wonder whether the measures of relief, which have tided them over the emergency, should be abandoned, modified, or become a permanent policy of agricultural planning.

Le Rossignol

For one thing, according to the figures of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, agricultural prices increased from March, 1933, to August, 1935, in the ratio of 55 to 84. In the same time prices paid by farmers for commodities bought have increased from 100 to 126. The pre-war parity, so earnestly desired has, therefore, not yet been restored. Moreover, such increase in prices as has occurred has been due chiefly to the drought rather than to monetary manipulation or to crop restriction under the AAA. That means that prices are likely to fall again in normal crop years. More and more restriction will therefore be necessary unless in some way manufacturers can be induced to reduce prices of the things which the farmers buy.

Then, too, the restriction of acreage devoted to corn and wheat tends to increase the acreage given to other crops, such as beets, potatoes, onions, beans, peanuts, and whatnot, demanding crop restriction without end. Thus, in many parts of the country potatoes have become a drug on the market, and yet the potato control act, which Secretary Wallace himself condemns, seems to have reduced the whole program to absurdity. Also, the restriction of cotton acreage has already stimulated the raising of corn and hogs in the South and alarmed the farmers of the Middle West. In the march of restriction, therefore, no stopping place is seen short of the restriction of total acreage, and it is very questionable whether the farmers of any part of the country will stand for that.

The farmers of the Middle West, though far from the seaboard, are increasingly aware of the importance of our export trade in farm products as the only outlet for surpluses which are bound to come unless we have drastic reduction of the total acreage. Such crop restriction as we have had, coupled with the effects of the drought and foreign tariffs and quotas, have reduced our exports, as the figures of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics all too clearly show. For example, from 1932 to 1934 we lost more than half of our wheat exports, more than 115,000,000 pounds of lard, more than 3,000,000 bales of cotton, and we continue to lose. Our exports of these commodities during the first six months of this year were far less than half of the exports for the year of 1934.

Someone profits where we lose. While we are withdrawing from the world market, other nations are taking our place. They are making hay while we are making the sun shine for them. Canada, for example, is unloading most of the surplus wheat held by the pool and a large part of this year's crop at good prices, all the higher because of the drought in Argentina and the world shortage of about 300,000,000 bushels. This reminds one of the old proverb: "One man's meat is another man's poison."

This makes one wonder what effects a general restriction of crops would have upon the prosperity of flour millers, meat packers, railways, merchants, and the men and women employed by them, and by others engaged in the handling or processing of farm products. Will you protest, if you are one of those affected, added to those of the final consumers, cause a reaction which will largely nullify the benefits of high prices? Buyers' strikes are a recent development pointing to this possibility.

If by the lure of high prices and the false lure of scarcity the farmer is induced to surrender his foreign market in exchange for economic nationalism, he may find, when too late, that he has sold his birthright for a mess of pottage.

Praise for the eleventh district University of Michigan Alumni association of the Upper Peninsula comes from T. May the Peninsula clubs take heart in what Mr. Tapping has to say.

"THE COLUMBIA ENCYCLOPEDIA," edited by Clarke F. Ansley; (Columbia University Press).

Five million words contain the information which those who prepared the Columbia Encyclopedia believe deserves a place in their venture. These words are divided among 50,000 articles—yet the whole affair is bound in one volume, and the volume is not as thick and not as heavy as the ordinary "unabridged" dictionary. Incidentally, it always has been a mystery to this department that so much abridged a matter as the dictionary should ever be spoken of that way.

The new encyclopedia is largely the product of Clarke F. Ansley, who has had to do with other ventures of the sort in the past. And it has certain unique features, not the least of which is the inclusion of every town in the United States of 1,000 or more population. It also contains every proper name in the St. James Bible, with something about it.

It is, not to be long winded about the tale, one of the most comprehensive jobs of the kind ever done, and therefore the book is one of the most useful ever published. As Mr. Ansley remarks, specialization has made it impossible for any encyclopedia to contain the sum of human knowledge; that once was possible. Even the Brittanica has omissions.

The second most important fact about the new book is that it is balanced according to contemporary standards. It is not a revision of an older work, but completely new. Only one who has tried revamping an existing book appreciates what this can mean. And a third is its entire impartiality. Historical subjects are treated with detachment, religious articles have been submitted to representatives of all creeds.

One could go on cataloging features for hours. Only one more need be mentioned, which is that an honest attempt has been made to treat the arts with care, and fully. The editors have not been afraid to include major contemporary figures, and that helps a great deal.

CHANGING COUNTRY

If we had never lost, we might not know
Gain when it came, if we had never sighed
I wonder if a smile would please us so?
Would hills be high, no valleys to divide?
We often struggle through the darkest ways
To happier days.

It is the rolling prairie, not the plain,
Men learn to love, it is the rise and fall
Of changing country, not the smooth terrain
Of level distance with no change at all.
A rocky gully makes a windswept hill
Seem fairer still.

And poor the sailor who finds only calm
In some safe harbor or some narrow pond,
Who does not know the pinetree and the palm,
The islands, seas, and islands on beyond.
'Tis not success to never know a gale—
It is to fail.

They who have always had have nothing had,
Have naught to measure naught to measure it.
But God has given values to the sad,
To know the good and know the counterfeit.
Through changing country man must always go
This world to know.

New York Column

BY JAMES B. RESTON

NEW YORK—Buried in the gray, six-point type of the classified ads in a New York German newspaper, this notice appeared the other day:

WANTED: A noble-looking old gentleman resembling the Kaiser Franz Josef. Apply The Hapsburg House.

To the door of this famous east side restaurant in response to the ad came 79-year-old Rudolf Lindameier, who had the noble look, a wonderful white mustache, and an astonishing beard to match.

He explained that in the days of the Hapsburgs, he had marched in the Kaiser Franz Josef's guard and that even in those days he was said to resemble his chief. He had studied the resemblance ever since, he pointed out, which was unnecessary, for the resemblance was obvious. Rudolf Lindameier got the job.

It isn't a very exciting job; neither is it unusual. He merely opens the door and bows to the the guests, but I'd rather not call him a doorman.

* * *

I MENTION this not only because the old fellow is one of the most interesting in Yorkville, the German quarter, but also to indicate that the Hapsburg House is one of Manhattan's most unusual restaurants.

It was conceived by Lurwig Bemelmans, the artist, who sold Walter P. Chrysler, Jr., and several of his friends the idea of financing it. A lovely old gray house was redecorated to accommodate it and the decorations account for its distinction.

Bemelmans' idea was to paint all the furnishings on the wall. For example, the room upstairs front is a copy of the room in which Franz Schubert, the composer, wrote most of his music, and in the corner in which Schubert's piano stood, Bemelmans has painted the piano on the wall. Schubert, you may remember, hung his trousers out the window each night with the pockets out so that the inn-keeper across the street would know that he was broke and hungry. So in the Schubert room, the trousers appear to hang out the window, and his coat hangs on a clothes-tree which is also painted on the wall.

* * *

THIS description is inadequate and misleading, for you may think that this is just another tricky New York club, but actually it has an atmosphere of peace and restraint.

Alexander Woollcott, who lives nearby, eats here regularly, and was so struck by the place that he brought Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur over to take several shots for the motion picture The Scoundrel.

I suggested to Carl Werner, the intelligent young German who manages the house, that he could triple his business by placing an ad in the New York papers illustrated by still photographs of Coward and Miss Haydon taken from the film. But he doesn't want to increase business. He wants to keep it so that they know almost everyone by name who comes in.

News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

—STRENGTH—

Washington, Oct. 30.—The background behind the current business improvement appears to be solid. There are no sensational seasonal surges in particular lines to make them stand out temporarily like roses in October. Nor are there quicksands and holes marking lags and declines.

Paul Mallon

The bas relief map of business is smoother than at any time since the depression started. It appears to have balance and strength beyond any discernible in five years.

At least this is the obvious conclusion from the government's own business chart, which attempts to balance business like a carpenter's level.

—SCALES—

The chart indicates industrial production now is around 91 per cent normal, which is just about the same relation to normality existing last January. But what is different now is that, since January, factory employment has improved from 80 to 82; payrolls from 64 to 74; department store sales 72 to 82; building 27 to 43; prices 78.8 to 80.6.

In simple words, the basis for further improvement has been laid. Bigger payrolls mean the people will have more money to buy. When this factor is coupled with a brisk improvement in store sales, a five months' strong rise in residential building and firmer prices, it means that all the current business uplift stories really have something behind them at last.

It indicates that production should not now fall off next month as it fell for four months after the January high.

—STATUS—

What has happened specifically to fill in the business gaps lately is the improvement in durable goods. There was no sign of a let-up in their depression until June. Since then, machine tools have picked up, as have cement, lumber, all building materials. Also cotton consumption troubles are being smoothed over. That index was up 10 points from 85 in August to 95 in September. Official figures will shortly be issued showing a further increase in October.

Iron and steel activity continues fairly strong in an extra-seasonal range. There will be no substantial decrease in steel because automobile production now is moving fast. Auto output for October will be twice that of September.

Little change has been noticeable in bituminous coal production . . . anthracite is up with a belated seasonal rise . . . nondurables like tobacco show no change . . . leather and shoes registered less than seasonal increases during the last sixty days.

—SALES—

Rural sales how a greater increase than the city department stores. The adjusted rural index for September was 195 per cent of the 1929-31 averages. A year ago the index was 98.8 per cent. Total sales were larger this September than for any period since 1929.

The experts here say this is due to the good price level and larger crops, rather than the benefit payments.

City department stores sold 12 per cent more the first half of October than they did last year. Their price level was up about a point from 85.7 in August to 86.6 in September.

—LOADINGS—

Anyone who is waiting for the railroads to come back had better take a chair. The freight loadings index is the only one in the chart which failed to show a further approach to normality this year. At 64 per cent it is far better off than building at 43 per cent, although its immediate prospects are not as bright. However, miscellaneous loadings have lately increased. This classification represents the more active movement of business goods.

—PRICES—

The passing of the European war scarce will relax the inflationary pressure on prices. The current trend is toward a slight leveling off. Copper, chemicals and wheat are what forced the index up during September. There has been no substantial change lately in general retail prices, or in fods.

—EMPLOYMENT—

Confidential government figures indicate an improvement in employment for every month since January. The Ayres index excepts one month, the A. F. of L. two. It is obvious again that unemployment figures are not moving in unison with employment and relief statistics.

—NO STONES—

Apparently, people are living more transparently. The activity in plate glass production is phenomenal. Production for September was 179 per cent of the 1923-25 averages. A year ago it was 84. Increased use of glass in autos and housing is probably responsible.

The Illinois farm wife who set a new yawning record a year ago is at it again. That the radio comics have just returned to the air is probably only a coincidence.

Financial scondal involving NRA is appearing, in anticipation of the campaign. It paves the way for the Gen's next book: "The Blue Eagle From Earth to Dirt."

Culbertson tells a Kansas City audience that his farm in the East isn't doing so well. Maybe he's short in spades.

"Yes" and "Oh, yeah" are by no means the same. It is hard to visualize the new Caesar surrounded by Oh-yeah-men.

At least one point has been cleared up by this time: : Judah has no concurring lion.

TAPS CEREMONY FOR ARMISTICE

Escanaba Legion Buglers Will Be Stationed Along Street

American Legion buglers stationed along Ludington street will give the signal for the minute of silence and halting of traffic which will distinguish Escanaba's observance of Armistice Day at 11 a. m. on Nov 11.

Ralph R. Olsen, manager of the Escanaba Legion drum and bugle corps, has announced the assignment of four buglers for the Ludington street ceremony. They will be stationed at 14th street, 11th street, 8th street and 6th street.

At the stroke of 11, a firing squad drawn up at Tenth street and Ludington wll fire three volleys, and this will be the signal for the buglers to take up the call of "taps," carrying the echo down the street as each of the buglers follow in succession. During this period, traffic will be asked to halt momentarily, and all those on the streets will be requested to halt and face the east.

Other Armistice Day events in which the Legion will take part will be the parade of all veterans at 1 p. m., the annual Escanaba-Gladstone football celebration, an evening banquet for veterans and guests at the Delta hotel, and a dance at the Argonne Gardens.

ISLE ROYALE TO STAY WILD

National Park Service Reveals Its Plans for New Park

BY ESTHER VAN WAGONER
Washington Correspondent

Washington, D. C. (Special)—Isle Royale will be kept a "great wilderness area, free from roads and artificialties" when it becomes a national park. Such is the plan of the National Park service, according to Dr. Harold C. Bryant, assistant director, whose enthusiasm for Isle Royale dates back to the time when he visited it as a boy of eight.

That it will be a national park has recently been made possible with the approval of the government to spend $700,000 for the acquiring of privately owned lands and $5000 for administrative purposes on the island.

"It will be the first Island Park and the first primitive forest park in the national park system," said Dr. Bryant, who thinks it a wonderful thing that Michigan will have this permanent sample of its great outdoor heritage.

"This sanctuary has probably been kept safe from desecration by its inaccessibility, so today it can offer many distinquishing features as a park—a wilderness where a large herd in moose roam, a beautiful recreational ground—a summer ideal climate with cool breezes off the lake, rare fauna and flora, marvelous little bays, the home of Mackinaw trout." Mr. Bryant remarked.

The park service will insist that accommodations for visitors be simple, in keeping with the character of the island. They will be urged to utilize the waterways, to take hiking, fsihing and camping trips.

A German critic says that the British laugh too much, and he accuses them of hiding a sense of superficiality under the cloak of humor.

At a pretty wedding of the autumn season, performed Saturday, October 26, in Escanaba, Miss Estelle Roshak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roshak of Perronville, became the bride of Anthony Nastoff, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nastoff.

The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, Rev. Fr. Edward Leary, O. F. M., celebrant of the mass, reading the marriage service.

The bride was attended by Miss Ann Nastoff, as maid of honor, and Miss Ruby Nastoff and Miss Helen Roshak, who were her bridesmaids. The bridegroom's attendants were Nick Nastoff, Nick Perla and George Perla.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white satin, of fitted lines, the floor length skirt extending into a train, and a veil of tulle, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink and white roses, pompons and snapdragons. Her maid of honor wore pink chiffon, and the bridesmaides wore pink net and peach taffeta, with silver accessories, and they carried arm bouquets of lavendar and white pompons. Little Joyce Longtine of Wells, who was flower girl, was dressed in a dainty frock of pink and she carried a basket of lavendar and white pompons.

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Lose Fat The Easy Way — Without Starvation Diets, Harsh, Exhausting Salts or Weakening, Irritating, Habit-Forming Laxatives

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.

All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with methods that are hard, futile or depend on harmful, health-racking salts and laxatives for their action. Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formuia is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmola today from druggists.

Theatres

At the Delft

Filmgoers who have been looking for the superlative romance, those who seek drama, and those who prefer adventure will find all these elements combined in the simple, human, down-to-earth story of Fox Film's "The Farmer Takes a Wife," which opened at the Delft Theatre Wednesday.

The picture stars Janet Gaynor in one of the most absorbing and tender love stories it has been her privilege to play; it exhibits for the first time the superior talents of the screen's new romantic sensation, Henry Fonda, and it tells a magnificent tale in a style that will leave you troubled and strangely happy at its close.

"The Farmer Takes a Wife" deals with the turbulent glamour and vitality of the Erie Canal scene in the early 1850's, and draws its dramatic conflict from the love of a boy fresh from the farmlands for a girl who was attached to the water life.

Fonda is the boy who takes to the canals to earn enough to buy his own farm. The life of the canal throws him into contact with Janet Gaynor, cook for canal boater Charles Bickford, and although he recognizes their intrinsic differences, Fonda cannot help falling in love with her. She returns his love.

Trooper Sheehan Tells Lions Club Safety Drive Plan

Trooper Ralph Sheahan of the Michigan state police, speaking before the Lions club on Tuesday evening, outlined a safety campaign designed to reduce the mounting accident toll in this state.

Pointing out the need for action of this kind, he termed Michigan the most bloody state in the union and said that accidents in the state are breaking all time records while there are still two months of the year to come. The move to reduce traffic accidents is one in which all groups within the city should cooperate.

Declaring that eighty per cent of the people can be reached through common sense and reason, he said that the twenty per cent who cannot be so reached make public approval of enforcement measures necessary to any curb on accidents. Officers attempting to enforce traffic laws which make for safety should be allowed to enforce the law impartially.

The trooper told of the excellent results being obtained thru thorough-going campaigns in other cities of the state and of the splendid record in Marquette where two months have gone by without a traffic accident. He closed his talk with a detailed description of campaign promotion work.

The civic improvement committee and board of directors of the club will meet at 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening at the city hall building.

Many of our politicians who are endeavoring to plan our laws and our design for living would be wearing satin breeches of a bygone age if their dress was no further advanced than their thoughts.

Fine Reports Are Feature of Club Meeting Tuesday

A full and interesting program featured by reports of meetings, a talk on Mexcio and vibra-harp selections by Miss Bernice Hoholik was presented at the regular meeting of the Manistique Women's club on Tuesday afternoon in the Elks' Temple.

The club president, Mrs. W. F. Kefauver, presented her report of the 41st annual convention of the Michigan State Federation of Women's clubs held recently at Ann Arbor. The program for this convention was provided chiefly by the University of Michigan and included a variety of topics ranging from the modern conception of the atom to "Woman's place in the solution of modern economic and social problems." The latter subject being discussed by Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the ex-governor of Pennsylvania.

Prof. Pollock's address on government was outlined. He favors the 'merits' system as opposed to the 'spoils' system. Such a system would tend to make a career of politics. Some highlights were also given from the address on the neutrality problem by Prof. Jones. He was said to have declared that strict neutrality meant strict impartiality. Trade with warring countries cannot be curtailed without sacrifice, but sacrifice for the price of peace is small compared to the price of war. Other addresses sketched briefly included a talk on outstanding plays of Broadway, "Juvenile Delinquency in Michigan," "Sound," "Heavy Water," interior decorating and problems of American youth.

Mrs. Kefauver gave an interesting description also of one of the outstanding dinners, a travel banquet. She closed her report with a resume of the dynamic speech of Mrs. Pinchot.

Mrs. George A. Shaw followed Mrs. Kefauver and told of her trip into Mexico during the past summer. She described in a most vivid manner the change from the cornfields of Texas to the arid deserts of Mexico, the low abode huts hardly noticeable in their surroundings, the incongruity to the American eye of calla lilies growing in ditches along the wayside. She drew a word picture of the heavily laden burros, the senoras in dull gray and blue shawls carrying babies in a corner of their wrap and balancing a heavy basket on their head or a water jug on a shoulder. Of the cities she told with their narrow rough cobblestone streets, the cathedral at Tampico with its dome of glazed blue tile and yellow star, the magnificent laces on the priestly robes, the solid onyx baptismal bowl in the cathedral at Peublo. She told of the hand woven mantillas on which whole families worked, even a four year old child being pressed into service to spin the wool for his grandfather to weave. There was also the hammering of silver ornaments from hot metal. Swollen streams which had to be forded furnished excitement on side trips.

She mentioned briefly some of the Mexican dishes such as turkey with a sauce of sixteen ingredients including chocolate, cottage cheese from goat's milk and hot tamales. Little Pat Shaw came in wearing an elaborately embroidered Mexican costume with woven straw somprero. Other articles displayed were examples of Mexican art from small carved toys to the beautiful mantillas woven from finest wool in beautifully clear colors.

Miss Bernice Hoholik gave three vibra-harp selections which were very much enjoyed and enthusiastically encored.

Mrs. Putnam, delegate to the Triennial held in June at Detroit presented a paper on the highlights of that meeting.

At the triennial, for the first time in the history of the federation of clubs controversial issues were included in the program and the delegates had an opportunity to hear Democratic, Republican, Socialist and Labor speakers. As a climax an open forum was held at which questions were welcomed and fully answered.

Mrs. Putnam gave the club women a number of pithy quotations from the speeches of Dr. Dana, Secretary Wallace, Col. Knox, Dr. Harold Bowman, Mrs. Julia Jaffray, Senator Gore, Dr. Waldo Stevens, and Dr. Ray Hansen.

The tea table at which Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Kefauver presided was a spot of colorful beauty with its beautiful Mexican cloth covering and its unusual centerpiece of fall vegetables. In the centerpiece the every-day squash, peppers, red cabbage and other vegetables were so arranged that the colors blended delightfully. The plates and candlesticks of Mexican pottery and the small Mexican figure all went to make up a harmonious whole. A lovely mantilla draped over a railing near the table added to the picture.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Elmer Lundstrom, chairman, Mrs. Gordon Hughes, Mrs. R. G. Hentschell, Mrs. Edith Hudson, Mrs. Howard Holland, Mrs. Ernest Eckland, and Mrs. J. J. Goffard.

Mrs. A. W. Cockram and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Larsen motored to Munising Tuesday to attend the fifty-sixth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Cockram's and Mrs. Larsen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clement

PLANT RAINBOW TROUT IN RIVER

25,000 German Browns To Be Planted in Indian River Today

Five thousand six hundred rainbow trout averaging at least six inches in length were planted in the Indian River at the old Jack Pine dam location on Monday afternoon by a state conservation department crew under the direction of Stanley Schust of the Thompson fish hatchery. On Wednesday 25,000 German brown trout, three and four inches in length were plented near the same location in the stream.

The rainbows are a western fish which is being introduced in an experiment which will determine whether the western rainbows are as prone to migrate as the native rainbows. Among the fish planted on Monday were a large number of yearling trout all well over the size limit of legal fish.

Brook trout were planted nearer the head waters of the Indian river earlier in the year. This year the Indian river in Alger and Schoolcraft counties received 25,000 brook trout. These brook trout are hatched at the Thompson hatchery and are reared during the summer at the feeding ponds at Eckerman on the east branch of the Tahquamenon river and above Seney on the east branch of the Fox river.

With brook trout in the upper waters of the stream, the German browns are being planted in those stretches of the river where summer water temperatures run so hgh as to be unsuitable for the brook trout.

The fish planting operations are carried on with the state conservation department's planting unit which is a large tank truck. An independent pumping unit mounted on the truck operates a spray arrangement which provides aeration and so reduces the loss of fish in transportation to a minimum.

When planting fish from the hatchery in rivers near which conservation clubs are located the department follows a policy of giving the club notice of the date, time and place of planting so that representatives of the club may observe the planting. Representatives of the Schoolcraft County Conservation club observed the plantings of trout in the Indian river during the week.

County Farmers Favor Corn-Hog Control Extension

Schoolcraft county farmers who were eligible to take part in the corn-hog referendum balloting last week registered their approval of the control program by voting five to one to continue the control program. The vote was: ten for continued control and two against control.

In favoring control by five to one the eligible farmers of the county were following both the state and national trend in the balloting. In the state the control program received support at the rate of four to one and in the country-wide results the voting was seven to one in favor of continued control.

CHAPTER XXV

Bobby Wallace drove the shiny demonstrator roadster into the shop, turned off the switch, and got out.

"Those brakes need adjusting, Red," he called out to a long, sorrel-topped mechanic who came strolling over to him. "The left front one drags a bit. The prospect I had out just now noticed it. Can we have it fixed?"

Red nodded, chewing gum slowly.

"I'll tell MacFarlane," he said. He looked dourly at the automobile. "Trouble is, Mac isn't here now. Him and the boss went off somewhere this afternoon right after lunch and I don't know when they'll be back."

MacFarlane was superintendent of the repair shop of the State Auto Sales agency, and all orders for repairs to demonstrator cars were supposed to be routed through him. Bobby frowned.

"Listen, I got a prospect wants a demonstration this evening," he said. "Can't I get a special job, if Mac doesn't get back in time?"

Red chewed his gum solemnly. He was notorious for a steady and undeviating pessimism.

"I suppose," he said. "I'll probably get in bad for it."

"I'll take the blame," said Bobby. "You said Mac went off with the boss? Where'd they go?"

"Search me. Very mysterious. Mac was getting busy with that job over there—" he jerked his thumb at a sedan whose hood was crumped up like an accordion—"when Hopkins came out and called him. They talked for a minute and then they went away together."

"Oh. Well, if you can get this brake fixed before evening I'll appreciate it."

Bobby walked back to the sales room, wondering where the shop foreman and the head of the agency could have gone. He remembered Larry Glenn's admonition to keep his eye on everything that seemed in the least degree out of the ordinary, in the hope that he could unearth some sort of clew to the whereabouts of the plant where the armored cars were made; could this afternoon's doings have any connection with that? He made his way to the little desk that was his, in the back of the show room, and sat down, frowning with the effort of thought.

Tim O'Mara, fellow salesman, sauntered over to borrow a match.

"Where's the boss?" asked Bobby, as Tim lighted up.

"Oh, he went out somewhere," said Tim. "I saw him and MacFarlane getting into the boss's roadster about 2 o'clock. My own hunch is that they went out to the ball game. . . . It's a nice day for it."

Bobby grinned and pocketed the matches that Tim handed him. Hopkins went to many ball games, but he was not the sort of man to take his shop foreman along.

* * *

When evening came Bobby made an hasty supper in a nearby restaurant, and then returned to the agency. He went back to the shop and found his demonstrator waiting for him. The red-headed mechanic was gone, but he had left a tag on the steering wheel bearing the words, "The brake drum is worn down. I fixed it OK for now but she needs a new one. Tell Mac."

Bobby threw the tag away and was about to get into the car when he saw Mark Hopkins' neat blue roadster parked against the opposite wall. So the boss and the foreman had got back, had they? He leaned against his car, meditating briefly; then he crossed the shop and stood looking at the car the men had used.

Julius, the colored man who took care of the shop nights, was coming up with a bucket in one hand and a length of hose in the other. He grinned when he saw Bobby.

"Boss sure got her dirty today," he said. "Told me to wash 'em up good right off."

The roadster was dirty, undeniably. It had gleaming wire wheels, and an abundance of bright chromium-steel on hood and bumpers; and these were plastered with a peculiar reddish dust that completely obscured their ordinary brilliance.

"Now where you suppose they got that kind of mud?" mused the Negro, bending to look at it. "Ain't no roads around this part of the country got red mud in 'em. I seen plenty down south, but ain't none around here. Nowhere."

That was true. The soil in this part of the country was a clayey loam which deposited dust and mud of a tan color. The dirt on thecar was almost blood-red.

"Looks like iron ore," said Bobby. Julius connected his hose to a wall fitting and motioned Bobby to stand back lest he be splashed.

"Uh-huh," he said, twisting the connection tight. "She do look like iron ore. I don't know where he could of got that on him, 'less it was down back of the Empire Steel plant."

A stream of water from his hose rattled on the car's hood and trickled to the concrete floor like blood.

"Was he down there?" asked Bobby. The Negro looked up.

"I don't know where he was," he said. "When he come in, I hear him cussing to MacFarlane about the Central street bridge being closed. That's all I know."

All of this seemed to add up to nothing at all. Bobby stood for a moment longer, watching Julius; then he got in the demonstrator and drove out to give his "prospect" a spin.

* * *

It was about an hour later that he brought the car back to the shop and parked it for the night. As he let himself out and started walking down the street to get his street car, he began to ponder anew on the trip that Mark Hopkins and MacFarlane had taken. Was it worth thinking twice about? Certainly it was Hopkins' privilege to take his shop foreman off on a business trip in the middle of the afternoon, if he chose to, without arousing anybody's suspicions. What if he had driven through some peculiar-looking red dust? Did that necessarily mean anything?

And then he remembered Larry Glenn's words. Somewhere around Dover there was a factory where armored, bullet-proof cars were surreptitiously made for gangsters. Larry believed Hopkins himself was selling these cars. He felt that it was highly important to find out about it, and he had urged Bobby to notice every little deviation from the ordinary routine, no matter how unimportant it might seem.

Yes, thought Bobby, but I'd look swell, wouldn't I, calling up Larry and telling him, "Hopkins went out for a ride this afternoon and got his car dirty. I thought you'd like to know." Larry'd tell me to go climb a twig.

Red dust on the wheels. Julius suggested the road back of the Empire Steel plant. Hopkins had been complaining because of the Central street bridge being closed. What did that have to do with it? Central street didn't run anywhere near the steel plant, did it?

Bobby rode home wondering about these things, and when he got to his room he hunted in his desk for a road map of Dover. Spreading it out on a table, he bent over it.

The Empire Steel plant was Dover's one consumer of iron ore. It was situated on the southeastern fringe of the city, in an almost inaccessible tangle of railroad tracks, warehouses and small shops. To reach it—let's see—you took Turney road, and Turney was a dead-end street, ending right at the steel mill.

Back of the plant, then? Here it was. . . . Bobby's pencil point traced a road that ducked under a railroad bridge, skirted the rear of the steel plant's enormous reservation, running between the factory and a railroad yard, and then came out on a long slant, running off to join—yes, Central street—at an angle.

Hmm, said Bobby, maybe it matches up after all. The Central street bridge is closed for repairs. So if he wanted to go out here, he'd have to detour, and this back road, Pulaski road, it is—would take him. But why go so far out? There's plenty of other cross streets that'd feed him into Central street a lot sooner, and more directly, too. Why go along Pulaski?

At last the solution came to him. Hopkins' destination must have been on Pulaski street itself, beyound the steel plant. Ordinarily he would have gone out Central and then turned down Pulaski; with the bridge closed, he had had to take another way, which caused him to go down Pulaski from the other end—which was why he had had to pass the steel plant at a point where, according to Julius, the ore dumps covered the road with this reddish dust. His goal, then, must have been on Pulaski, somewhere between the steel mill and Central street.

There was nothing more Bobby could do now; but the next morning, getting away from the salesroom as soon as he could, Bobby went to a drive-it-yourself agency, hired a car, and set out to see what he could see.

He reached Pulaski road, an ill-favored, poorly-paved street, and followed it. Before long the high red towers of the Empiro Steel plant loomed up on his right. His heart gave a bound of excitement as he saw that on the opposite side of the street there was a great ore dump, where the railroad cars were emptied; and overhead, crossing the road like a spindly steel bridge, there ran a series of conveyors by which ore was moved from the dump to the furnaces. And the road beneath was heavy with reddish dust!

He drove along with mounting excitement, past the steel mill and the railroad yards, between a long double line of unpainted wooden houses, mean and disreputable in appearance. The region was a slum, and a miserable one; what had brought the elegant Mark Hopkins down here?

Pulaski road went up a low rise and swung to the right diagonally. Vacant lots and shacks made up the landscape; of factories, or business houses of any kind, there was no sign. Ahead within plain sight now, was Central street, where Pulaski road ended. Was this a wild goose chase, then, after all?

Disconsolately, Bobby slowed down the car, turned around, and started back. And then he saw something he had not noticed before; a cindered driveway that went off to the left, between two grassless vacant lots, and disappeared around a bend in a place where the rolling, tenantless, desolate land formed a shallow valley.

"That must be it," mused Bobby. "There's no other possibility. I'll just find out."

He spun the wheel and started off along the lonely driveway.

BY G. A. PHILLIPS
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—The stock market tacked about in a profit-taking wind today but finally sheered off under late pressure.

Some of the utilities and specialties proved resistant, but most of the recent leaders were again soft, and losses of a point or so were not uncommon.

Turnover in the stock exchange, at 2,153,100 shares, rose considerably as compared with the previous session but activity was most pronounced during the early push in utilities and tended to dry up in the later recession.

The decline in the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was .4 of a point at 52.4. The largest loss was in the 30 industrials, .6 of a point at 71.9, while the 15 power and light issues dipped only .1 of a point at 41.2, and rails were down .3 of a point at 24.6.

To most market observers, it appeared that the day's uncertain performance was a continuance of the recent corrective movement following the long upward curve in equity prices. Commodities sagged, but apparently not sufficiently to be in themselves a particularly bearish influence on stocks.

Business Curve Rises

Wheat closed 1 cent a bushel down to 3-8 of a cent higher, while corn was off ½ to 1 1-8 cents and cotton ranged between a gain of 5 cents and a loss of 35 cents a bale.

European news continued an uncertain factor in Wall Street calculations, but as has been the case for some time past, its immediate market significance appeared minor.

The business curve still appeared to be ascending. Electric power production was ahead more than seasonally to another historic high. The magazine "Iron Age" reported expanding operations and firmer price structures in the steel industry. The latest batch of third quarter earnings reports were predominantly better than for the same period a year ago.

Western Union was off a point for a time and closed ¾ of a point down at 61 when it was reliably learned that another portion of the 10 percent wage cut made in 1931 would be restored on January 1.

A general increase in the rate for call loans to ¾ of 1 percent from the long-prevailing ¼ of 1 percent rate, foreshadowed by the action of a single bank yesterday, appeared unimportant to most Wall Street commentators as a market factor. The rise, it was said, resulted from no appreciable increase in demand for funds, but was merely designed to make such loans "self-supporting" where the old rate had not covered the expenses of lending.

Some of the more active share issues which got down major fractions to around 2 points included U. S. Steel at 45½, American Telephone at 142, Allied Chemical at 165½, General Motors at 161¾, Case at 100, Westinghouse at 89, Union Pacific at 93½, Chrysler at 84 and Sears at 89.

A few issues which ranged from steady to a point or so up against the trend included Deere, Collins & Aikman, Pullman, Midcontinent Petroleum, Consolidated Gas of N. Y., Columbia Gas and American Smelting.

A bond market moved quietly lower throughout the day following the genera lead of equities. U. S. government issues were narrowly irregular. Denver & Rio Grande Western bonds were about steady although the expected announcement of application for reorganization came after the close of trading. The formal application will be made November 1, the company stated.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—Narrow fluctuations with the main trend downward was the rule on the bond market today.

Trading interest lagged for the third day in succession, and the market was void of all save a handful of interesting movements in scattered groups that reflected special circumstances. Transfers of $9,444,000, par value, compared with $9,835,000 the day before. The Associated Press averages were .2 of a point higher to .2 of a point lower, with gains recorded by utilities and foreign bonds and losses elsewhere.

U. S. government issues barely moved away from Tuesday's closing levels. Only about half of the active loans had a price range. The trend was mixed, 2-32 lower to 2-32 higher. Sales of government bonds aggregated $2,872,271 against $1,170,000 on Tuesday.

Rail bonds were mostly lower. Fractional declines were shown by Baltimore & Ohio 4½s at 55¼, Great Northern 7s at 100¼, New Haven 4½s at 26 and Nickel Plate 5½s at 69 3-8. Slight gains occurred in a few, including Southern Pacific 4½ and New York Central 4s.

Better than average moves elsewhere included Murray Body 6½s, off 5 at 185; New York Dock 5s, up 1½ at 54½; Utility Power & Light 5s, up 1¼ at 49¾; Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s, off 1 at 110; International Paper 5s, off 1 at 81 and Laclede Gas 5½s, up 7-8 at 74.

A few unusually wide movements were sported by the foreign division but in most cases only a small number of bonds were involved. Batavian 4½s dropped 3 points; Pirelli 7s were 7 lower and Royal Dutch 4s were 4¾ lower at 112½. Italian issues were fairly steady and other foreign bonds were generally higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Oct. 30—Dominated by reports of peace possibilities and by uncertainties about Canada's selling policy, wheat values averaged lower today.

Indefinite war rumors that late yesterday ran the wheat market up fizzled out today, and Liverpool reports said wheat buyers overseas were filling only immediate wants. Bears emphasized that availability of huge supplies of wheat in Canada acted as a constant ceiling on United States prices. Notice, too, was taken of suggestions in some quarters that Canadian wheat shipments into the United States this season. Duty paid, may aggregate 100,000 000 bushels.

Wheat closed irregular, 1 cent lower to 3-8 higher than yesterday finish, December 97 1-8 to 97¼, corn ½ to 1 1-8 down, December 58¼ to 58 3-8, oats 1-8 to ¼ off, and provisions at 7 to 15 cents setback.

A disturbing factor in wheat dealings here was a report from Winnipeg indicating that the chairman of the Canadian government wheat board had not resigned, and that the wheat surplus problem in Canada as well as the make-up of the wheat board would be handled by a cabinet sub-committee Estimates were current that 60,000,000 bushels of wheat remained to be yet marketed by producers in the Canadian pjrairie provinces. New export business from Canada continued meager.

Corn and oats went lower as a result largely of a prospective cold wave favorable for maturing the new crop and increasing the movement to primary centers.

Provisions were responsive to downturns of grains.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—December 95 7-8, 97 3-4 to 97 7-8; May 95 7-8 to 96, 97 7-8 to 98; July 87 5-8, 89 5-8. Corn—December 57 3-8, 58 7-8; May 57½, 58½ to 58 5-8; July 57 7-8, bids.

Light Fluctuations Feature Curb Mart

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—Heavy churning of curb stocks failed to dislodge prices to any great extent today. Utilities cancelled much of an early rise, while a number of specialties worked moderately higher on the day. Transfers approximated 506,000 shares compared with 378,000 the day before.

Parker Rust Proof was a conspicuously firm spot, advancing 3 5-8 to 64½. Improvement of fractions to about a point were recorded by Electric Bond & Share at 16 3-8, Niagara Hudson Power at 9 1-8, Sherwin-Williams at 121½, Distillers Corp.-Seagrams at 31¾ and International Petroleum at 37.

Small declines were shown by Bunker Hill & Sullivan, Gulf Oil, Creole Petroleum and Pioneer Gold.

Museum 'Creates' Flowers

New York (AP)—How botanical specimens from Africa, Asia and other far places are 'brought back to life" is being shown at the American Museum of Natural History here in a series of exhibits. Flowers, leaves and other specimens for museum habitat groups are made out of wax, celluloid and paper so true to life, the Museum announces, that they cannot be told apart from the real thing.

From 1874 to 1881, ice was not used for food preservation in New Orleans. Wealthy people used it for table decoration, however, freezing flowers, French dolls and other decorative objects in the blocks of ice.

Eskymos Rely On High Scoring Offense To Win

FOES COUNT IN EVERY BATTLE

Nordmen Have Yet to Blank Opponents; Meet Negaunee

Seeking to continue their string of victories which have now run to three and to polish off their high scoring attack for the big game against the undefeated Gladstone warriors on Armistice Day, Escanaba high school gridders are pointing for another win Saturday when they meet Negaunee high school at the local gridiron.

A check-up of the season's record to date reveals that every victory of the Eskymos this season has been made by outscoring their opponent. That statement may seem peculiar on the surface in view of the fact that any team must make more scores than their opponent to win any game. But the fact is that the Eskymos have been scored on in every game this season, making necessary their rolling up a larger score in order to win. In no game have they succeeded in shutting out their opponents and in only one game, their first of the season, have they been denied the opportunity of crossing the pay-off stripe.

The Eskymos started the season by losing to Norway, 6-0. In the second game, they outscored Manistique, 24-6, and then lost a close 14-12 battle to Stambaugh, a victory which hinged on a doubtful decision of an official. The locals then started on a scoring spree to win their last three games, scoring not less than four touchdowns in any of them. They broke a jinx of long standing to outscore their ancient rival, Menominee, by 24-15 and ran up a 33-9 count over the luckless Soo Blue Devils. Last Saturday, they again won by the work of a bone-crushing offense, beating a rugged Iron Mountain team, 24-12.

Summarizing their efforts, it is found that the Nordmen have outscored opponents, 19-10, in all their games this year. It appears that if some team can devise a way to stop the Escanaba offense, they have a very good chance of winning. It remains to be seen whether or not Negaunee can turn the trick.

Olin Defends Title At St. Louis Tonight

St. Louis, Oct. 30 (AP)—Bob Olin, world's light heavyweight champion, aching "to get a crack at Joe Louis," tonight was ready for the more immediate business of defending his title against another "black menace."

John Henry Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz., negro challenger, will be in the opposite corner of the ring tomorrow night when Olin faces the first test of his right to hold the light heavy crown he took from Maxie Rosenbloom almost a year ago.

Beaten once by Lewis in a non-title bout, Olin declared today that for the first time he is physically and mentally fit to go the full route of 15 rounds in a title bout.

"I think I'll knock out Lewis," he said, "and I hope that I will get a crack at Joe Louis this winter."

Fight fans give Olin the edge. They figure Lewis' early attack, which probably will be a whirlwind while it lasts, will fade toward the end, and that Olin will plug along to a decision.

Wilson And Shuford Carry Mail For Bell's Ponies

BY JIMMY KITTS
Head Coach, Rice Institute

Houston, Tex.—Starting Nov. 2 and following through Nov. 11 there should be a big demand for pain potions by coaches in the Southwest conference.

A study of the schedule for the next two weeks reveals more headaches than were contained in a barrel of old pre-war bottled-behind-the-barn hooch.

No fewer than nine games are scheduled in two weeks which will have considerable bearing on the Southwest title.

One game is very likely to affect the national football picture considerably. I refer to the Southern Methodist-University of California game in Los Angeles November 11. If Madison Bell takes his hard-charging Ponies to the west coast in the same frame of mind that they were when they were when they met our Rice Institute team, I fear that west coast football authorities will be in a mood for shying away from games with Southwest conference teams for some time.

Ponies Win With Wilson

I think this contest will do more to put football in this neck of the woods on the national map than anything else that has happened in years.

It can be inferred from that statement that I think S. M. U. will win. And if Bob Wilson, that fleet, slippery-hipped 148 pounds of dynamite, and Harry Shuford, Matty's hard-plunging fullback, are in form, you are welcome to the inference.

And if S. M. U. wins, the Mustangs might be playing in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1!

However, the Ponies have a hard hill to climb before that game. They meet Texas at Dallas Nov. 2.

Do not count the Longhorns out of the running. You can find hundreds of fans in this section who will venture the opinion that the Steers will upset the dope.

Texas A. and M. meets Arkansas at Fayetteville, and two of the fastest improving teams in collegiate football should wage quite a battle.

Frogs, Bears in Hot Fight

T. C. U. looks upon the clash with Baylor at Waco Nov. 2 with much uncertainty. Morley Jennings' charges loom as exceedingly dangerous.

Rice goes to Washington, D. C., for a game with the George Washington Colonels Nov. 2, and then has to do something about Fred Thomson's Arkansas Porkers Nov. 9 at Houston.

After meeting S. M. U. Texas must face the Baylor Bears at Waco Nov. 9.

IRON MAN

DETROIT LIONS FACING CRISIS

Next Ten Days Will Tell Fate of Clark Crew in Pro League

Detroit—The next 10 days will just about make or break the Detroit Lions' chances for the professional football championship and Coach Potsy Clark is bearing down on his gridders.

There are a lot of 'ifs' connected with the Detroit gridiron picture, and it will take quite a victory string to put the Lions in the December title game, but the Motor city executives have every confidence that Coach Clark will be able to reach the top of the football ladder before the curtain drops on the 1935 season.

Face Boston First

The first hurdle the Lions have to jump is Wednesday night's game with the Boston Redskins. The Boston squad arrived here Monday from Pittsburgh, where they took a 6 to 0 licking and Coach Eddie Casey claims he is going to beat the Lions tomorrow night or walk back to Massachusetts. These clubs played in Boston Sunday, Oct. 13, and the Lions triumphed by a 17 to 7 score.

Hurdle No. 2 for Clark and his hirelings is set up next Sunday at Wrigley field, Chicago, where the Detroiters are booked for a game with the Cardinals. In their first meeting of the season Sunday, Sept. 29, the clubs battled to a 10-10 tie here in a rip-snorting ball game.

If the Lions can take both these ball games, it will give them a percentage ranking of .667, with four victories, two defeats and a tie. This would give Detroit a perfect setup for the two game series which follows with the sensational Green Bay Packers.

On Nov. 10, Detroit invades Green Bay, while a week later, the Packers will make their first appearance of the season here. Detroit suffered a 13 to 9 defeat at the hands of Green Bay in Milwaukee Oct. 20 but the Lions had a crippled battle front, with Glenn Presnell, and Buster Mitchell on the sidelines with injuries.

May Decide Title

Coach Potsy Clark thinks the series with Green Bay will just about decide the western championship, as he dopes the Chicago Bears out of the picture and feels that the Chicago Cards will lose about four games on the home stretch.

Following the games with Green Bay, Detroit has a home and home series booked with the Bears. Detroit plays in Chicago Nov. 24 and the Halas-men invade Detroit Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28. The closing game on the Detroit schedule is booked here on Dec. 1, with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

SPILLING the DOPE

Neil's great American following will miss his clever and colorful stories of the doings in and out the prize ring. He covered numerous sport events for the Associated Press—boxing, baseball, football, tennis, wrestling, and numerous others—but it was his boxing yarns which are his greatest masterpieces. Some very entertaining stories from the war zone can be expected when Neil reaches the scene of activities.

Do you know what game attracted the largest crowd in Escanaba football history? No, not Menominee, nor Iron Mountain, nor Gladstone. It was the Escanaba-Manistique game of 1929 and it was played at the State fairgrounds. The game was played on Friday afternoon, instead of Saturday, and was a feature of the state fair program that day. A crowd of 10,000 fans attended the game which the Eskymos won, 13 to 0.

—o—

The contention of Delta County football fans that Gladstone would have a virtually undisputed claim to the peninsula championship if the Keilmen can get by the Vulcan and Escanaba games successfully is supported by Hap Willoughby, Iron Mountain sports scribe. Willoughby has made an appraisal of the peninsula football situation and found that of the unbeaten and untied teams the Gladstone record to date is by far the most impressive. Willoughby's comments on this subject are reprinted here.

—o—

"With most peninsula high schools scheduled to close their football season next Saturday, only three teams have so far escaped being tied or defeated by peninsular rivals. Lake Linden, listing all six of its wins over Copper country competition, has already completed its schedule. Calumet, with an abbreviated card of games, will finish next Saturday against Hancock, which it is favored to trim for its fourth victory. Gladstone, with four triumphs already registered, has Vulcan next Saturday and Escanaba Armistice day in its path.

—o—

"Tied but unbeaten teams are Ironwood and Newberry. Newberry's record was marred last Saturday by Munising when the elevens battled to a scoreless deadlock. Ironwood was tied early in the season by Wakefield, which Saturday was knocked out of the group of possible championship claimants by Iron River, 13-0. Several other teams have escaped to date with only one licking in the U. P., including Norway, Stambaugh and Menominee.

—o—

"If Gladstone can hurdle Vulcan and Escanaba, most of the peninsula will be ready to concede superiority to its claims. Calumet beat Bessemer, but so did several other teams. Calumet was only able to tip Ishpeming 7-6, while Gladstone turned the trick 31-0. Lake Linden's schedule was not representative enough to strongly support any claims its followers may make. Gladstone, however, has been rolling along snowing under opposition. In Escanaba it will clash with a fine aggregation, and a fairly decisive victory would be proof enough to us that the Upbays are second to none this year."

"Babe" Considering Offer To Introduce Baseball In England

New York, Oct. 30, (AP)—Babe Ruth said today that he was "seriously considering" an offer to devote his future to introducing baseball into Great Britain and other foreign countries.

"While baseball is really our pastime," he said, "I see no reason why it can't be built up in other countries so that in the time of our children it would be an international as well as a national sport."

The Babe spoke at the monthly luncheon of the Circus Saints and Sinners' club which initiated him as one of its "fall guys."

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 30 (AP)—Indiana plays failed to make an impression on the University of Iowa line in scrimmage today although the freshmen, impersonating the Hoosiers, succeded in completing several passes.

Today's defensive scrimmage drill was expected to be the last stiff workout for the Hawkeyes before the Indiana game here Saturday.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 30 (AP)—New offensive plays to be used against Purdue a week from Saturday were handed the University of Wisconsin squad today as the Badgers took up their first intensive practice. The varsity was given hard tackling and blocking drill against the freshmen and third string varsity. Several regulars were excused to study for the six-weeks exams.

Dark Outlook for Trojans

Los Angeles—Nick Lukats, former Notre Dame halfback, now in pictures, predicts that Southern California will lose to California, Stanford, Notre Dame, and Pittsburgh this year.

PACKERS HAVE GOOD DEFENSE

Best in League; New York Giants Lead on Offense

Columbus, Ohio—The Green Bay Packers have the best defensive record in the National Professional football league, while the New York Giants have piled up the best offensive record, statistics revealed today.

The Packers have had only 40 points scored upon them in seven games, while at the same time they have scored 36 points on opponents for the third best offensive record. The New York Giants have scored 109 points in six games this season, and have had 62 points registered against them.

The Chicago Bears are second best offensively, with 100 points, while the Detroit Lions are the second best defensive team, having had 42 points scored upon them, but in only five games.

Tar Heels, Wolfpack Test Famous Systems When They Play Sat'y

State's Fine Line Faces Carolina Strong Backs

Raleigh, N. C.—The reason national football attention has been focused on North Carolina this year has been the playing of the North Carolina State and University of North Carolina football elevens. These two teams meet here Nov. 2 in one of the major football attractions of the year.

The game will eliminate one of the teams from the top of the Southern conference and North Carolina's own hotly contested Big Five race. Carolina, undefeated and untied, is doped to keep its slate clean. The Staters are none the less respected after being down by Georgia.

The fray also will give critics of football systems a chance to discuss the merits of the Notre Dame system, as taught by Hunk Anderson at North Carolina State, and the Warner system, as taught by Carl Snavely at Carolina.

Anderson and Snavely accepted coaching contracts at State and Carolina last year, and their 1934 squads fought to a 7-7 tie in a nip-and-tuck battle at Chapel Hill.

The game will bring together some of the nation's outstanding grid stars. At State, Coach Anderson offers his brilliant center, Steve Sabol, who, he says, is just as good a center as he ever coached. In the backfield, the former Notre Dame mentor presents his sensational sophomores, Cowboy Robinson and Eddie Berlinski.

State also has Vince Farrar, powerful right tackle; Capt. Barnes Worth, right guard, and Mac Cara, considered by many as the best defensive end in State's long football history.

Over at Carolina, the Tar Heels offer Dick Buck, a great end; Don Jackson, Jim Hutchings, and Harry Montgomery, three unusually fine backs.

The game is the oldest annual football attraction played in North Carolina, and every meeting of State and Carolina is a guarantee of a great battle. The schools have met 27 times before, the first game being played in 1894.

SHARKEY WILL TRY COMEBACK

Former Champ Thinks He Can Lick Joe Louis

Boston, Oct. 30 (AP)—The set opinion of Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight champion, that he can defeat any fighter the negro race can produce, today lured the 33-year-old Boston veteran out of retirement.

Although he was beaten twice, by King Levinsky and Tommy Loughran, immediately after he dropped his title to Primo Carnera in 1933, Sharkey believes he can dispose of Joe Louis, current negro fistic sensation, and then regain the championship from his former sparring partner, Jimmy Braddock.

Sharkey, who has stolen away from his busy Boston tavern for some secret training almost every day during the past year or so, plans to stand his comeback here in Boston late next month. Johnny Buckley, his manager and business partner, now is considering matching Sharkey against either Levinsky, Unknown Winston, Patsy Perroni or Johnny Risko, one of the Bostonian's old-time rivals.

"I believe everybody has gone overboard in saying that Louis is the greatest fighter of all times," Sharkey said when he announced his decision to attempt a comeback.

FIGHTS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 30 (AP) — Joe Louis, sensational negro heavyweight, will fight in the Chicago Stadium January 10 against an unnamed opponent, possibly Charley Retzlaff, Duluth puncher.

The January encounter, billed to go 10 rounds, fits into Louis' plans to box once a month in leading boxing centers of America until he gets a crack at James J. Braddock for the heavyweight title.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, of New York, who hold an option on all Louis' bouts, arranged the match with the Chicago Stadium matchmaker, Nate Lewis. Jacobs also is making arrangements with Barney Ross of Chicago to defend his welterweight crown at Miami in January or February possibly against Jimmy McLarnin again.

LIONS WIN OVER BOSTON EASILY

14,000 Fans See Night Game at Detroit; Score, 14-0

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 30 (AP)—The Detroit Lions, scoring touchdowns in the first and last periods, had little trouble beating the Boston Redskins in a fog-bound National professional football league game here tonight, 14-0. About 14,000 saw the game. During the final two periods a heavy mist enveloped the field, at times almost completely blotting out all action, and making necessary the use of a white ball.

A 40-yard pass early in the initial quarter, Caddell to Schneller, gave the Lions their first score. Schneller gathered in the ball on the Boston 38 and crossed the goal line unmolested. In the final period, two passes and a series of smashes by Presnell and Clark put the ball on the Redskin one-yard marker, from where Gutowsky plunged over for a touchdown.

Boston threatened seriously only once, working the ball to the Lion 9-yard line in the third period only to lose possession on an intercepted pass. Detroit made eight first downs to four for Boston, the Lion forward wall proving too strong for the Redskin running game.

The lineup:

DETROIT		BOSTON
Klewicki	LE	Malone
Johnson	LT	Edwards
Knox	LG	Kahn
Randolph	C	Bausch
Emerson	RG	Olsson
G Christensen	RT	O'Brien
Schneller	RE	Collins
Vaughan	QB	Shepherd
F Christensen	LH	Pinckert
Caddel	RH	McPhail
Gutowsky	FB	Hokuf

Score by periods:

Boston	0	0	0	0	0
Detroit	7	0	0	7	14

Detroit scoring: Touchdowns, Schneller; Gutowsky.

Points after touchdowns: F. Christensen (placement); Clark (dropkick).

Substitutions: Detroit, backs, Presnell, Clark, Parker, Kaska, Nott; ends, Morse, Ebding; tackles, Stacey, Steen; guards, Hupke, Monahan; center, Ward. Boston, backs, Wright, Rentner, Johnson; tackles, Barber, Sinko; guards, Moran, Concannon; ends, Tosi; center, Siemering.

Officials: Referee, Bobbie Cahn (Chicago); umpire, Gunnar Elliott (Notre Dame); head linesman, M. Meyer (Ohio Wesleyan); field judge, J. J. Ritter, (Purdue).

ROCK PREPARES FOR MANISTIQUE

Little Giants End Year at Home Saturday; Boys Crippled

Rock, Mich., Oct. 29—The curtain comes down on the finale of the football season at Rock high school Saturday when the local gridsters meet the green and whites of Manistique on the Rock athletic field.

Intensive practice during the past week has livened things up considerably in the Little Giant camp and the boys have regained some of their former confidence, lost in the Stephenson game. Practices have been spirited and slam-bang affairs bringing forth aggressiveness on the part of the team members long sought by Coach Weingartner. Last week was spent brushing up on the blocking and charging of the team as a whole with some individual attention being given to faulty interference on the part of a couple of the backfield men.

This week the Rock coach has given much of his time to experimental shifting of players in an effort to produce a strong defensive line and to find a replacement for Capt. Cletus Chenail, injured in the Stephenson game. The most successive move to improve the line seems to have been the shifting of Brehmer, the fullback, to end on defense. If this plan is followed for the game Saturday L. Maki will play at left half on defense and Waak will take over the duties of backing up the line. Waak is one of those bone jarring tacklers who hit with the force of a pile driver and should be able to take over the assignment without any difficulty. Another cheering bit of news came in the form of Chenail's appearance on the field tonight in uniform. He did some light work, but Coach Weingartner indicated that, if Chenail were used at all in the game Saturday, he would play tackle in place of in the backfield. His injury has slowed him a lot and Trombly has shown enough ability as a blocker to warrant using him as a halfback.

The team appears confident that they can take Manistique and one of the things that has inspired the fighting spirit of the boys is that it is the last game under the purple and gold colors for nine of the boys. The seniors on the squad include Pilon, Sayen, Sharkey, Captain Chenail, Waak, Arthur Maki, and Miljour, all regulars, and Turunen and Molloy, who have seen plenty of service during the past season.

The officials for the game have been announced as Gunderman of Escanaba, McNutt of Manistique and Trombly of Rock.

GRIDIRON BRIEFS

Chicago, Oct. 30 (AP)—Chicago's important regulars, among them Jay Berwanger, loafed today while the second team scrimmaged against the reserves. Coach Clark Shaughnessy is giving his players a rest and a chance to watch new plays from the sidelines for Ohio State.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 30 (AP)—Illinois' hopes for victory over Northwestern were dealt a blow tonight when Ken Nelson, first string end and one of the team's better punters, suffered a painful knee injury while blocking. He probably will be out of Saturday's game.

Johnny Theodore, injured fullback who has been in the hospital since the Iowa game, watched the practice in street clothes tonight.

Minneapolis, Oct. 30 (AP)—Minnesota went through a long forward passing drill under flood lights as a feature of its workout today. George Roscoe, right half, did the throwing for the Gophers, but the receiving was generally poor. Coach Bernie Bierman, dissatisfied with the showing of his varsity, sent the players jogging around the field as a penalty for misplays.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 30 (AP)—Figuring Illinois strictly as a passing team, Northwestern's Wildcats spent a lively session tonight in building up a defense against aerial thrusts. Fundamentals also were stressed.

Saturday's game is expected to develop into a free scoring affair. The Wildcats also have tuned up their off tackle sorties which were so successful against Minnesota.

THE CASE OF THE HUNTER

The deer has much to fear. The life of a pheasant is not very pleasant. Every squirrel's in a whirl. It's the man with the gun who has all the fun. Even if he doesn't get his bag, he has a thrill awaiting at home. A brown bottle of golden Goebel—smooth, creamy. Sparkling with goodness! Mellowed in the famous Cypress Casks! And no need for you to hunt for it! Just go to the 'phone and ask any dealer for Goebel! Try it yourself. Goebel will give you much pleasure.

College Grid Scoring Highest In Five Years

RULES CHANGES FAVOR OFFENSE

Statistics Show That National Average Is 14.3 Points

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 30. (AP)—College football, on the basis of touch down production so far, is off on its greatest scoring spree in five years.

Performances at the halfway mark of the 1935 gridiron campaign, analyzed today, reveal a turn in favor of the offense for the first time since 1930, due apparently to certain rules changes, the so-called "slow whistle" and the further development of "open" play.

During the past four years scoring has steadily declined. From an average of 16 points per game in 1930 the team scoring barometer dropped to 12.19 points in 1934, despite mild attempts by the national rules committee to take away some of the defense's advantages.

"Ole Miss" Leads

Currently the national scoring average is back up to 14.3 points per-team-per-game for 167 college squads, representing the entire country. There's another month to go before figures can be double-checked for definite comparison, but it appears obvious the balance of power is shifting from the defense to the offense.

The average total per team, for six Saturday of college competition, is 68.7 points.

Among major teams, the University of Mississippi has rolled up the high total of 212 points for six games, but Dartmouth and Ohio State have scored at a faster pace. Dartmouth's 200 points for five games and Ohio State's 160 for four contests represent an average of 40 points per game. Mississippi touched a scoring peak with its 92-0 romp against West Tennessee Teachers. Ohio State steamrollered Drake, 85 to 7.

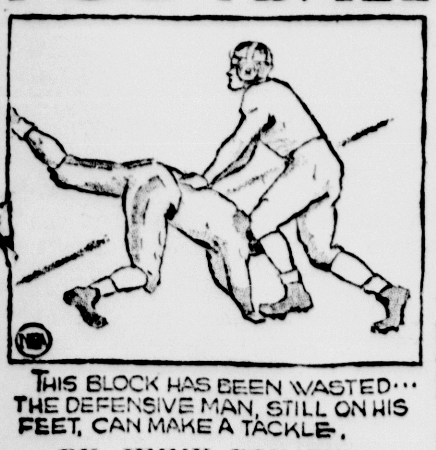
The middle west has turned up a trio of small-college outfits with high-scoring records. For five consecutive victories each, Butler, Wabash and Western Reserve have rolled up 184, 182 and 174 points, respectively. Michigan State, despite its astonishing 18-6 upset at the hands of Boston college, has accumulated 161 points in five games.

Paulino Uzcudun Will Arrive Today

New York, Oct. 30. (AP)—Paulino Uzcudun, the veteran Spanish heavyweight boxer, who will meet Joe Louis in a bout at Madison Square Garden Dec. 13, arrives from Europe tomorrow on the liner Lafayette.

It will be the Basque's first visit to this country in three years. In his last appearance, Sept. 25, 1932, he dropped a decision to the late Ernie Schaaf. Uzcudun will pitch his training camp at Orangeburg, N. Y., with Lou Brix in charge of pre-battle activities.

The New FOOTBALL



THIS BLOCK HAS BEEN WASTED... THE DEFENSIVE MAN, STILL ON HIS FEET, CAN MAKE A TACKLE.

BY JIMMY DONAHUE
Sketches by Buzz Wetzel

There is a great deal of football played on the ground when the ball is in the air. Watch the players on the turf next time you see a pigskin soar into the ozone and you will see for yourself.

On the kickoff, especially, do you get a chance to watch ground action. Notice that the five men who are within 15 yards of the ball will not try to block and knock down defensive players rushing downfield under the kick at the first possible point.

If these five players threw their blocks and knocked down their men at the earliest possible point of contact, the defensive men still could pick themselves up and figure in the play, perhaps tackling the runner.

The most difficult stunt in football is to knock off his feet a man coming at full speed downfield under a kickoff or punt. The most effective block in this case is to follow close to the man, bumping or driving him to the sidelines When the defensive man is close to the receiver, the offensive player throws a good body block, knocking him out of the play.

Governor-Somebody-Should Stop Fight Of Joe Louis and Uzcudun on Dec. 13

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

New York.—If the boxing commission stands for it, Governor Lehman, the Humane Society, or somebody ought to stop the "fight" between young Joe Louis and old Paulino Uzcudun, scheduled for Madison Square Garden, Dec. 13.

It unquestionably is the world's worst match—a tough way to get 10 per cent of the net receipts for even such a worthy charity as the Hearst newspapers' prize fight department's Christmas fund.

The proud Garden permitting the Hearst newspapers' prize fight department to muscle in can only be interpreted as admission of the failure of its own ringmaster, yet even such an intrepid individual as James J. Johnson would not have dared to resurrect the antiquated Paulino even if he had the heart.

In being dragged all the way from Barcelona, Paulino presents the strange spectacle of a broken-down contender rescaling the heights in reverse English.

Paulino has been as impotent as the Harvard attack ever since Max Schmeling dealt the Basque backstop an unmerciful lacing more than a half dozen year ago. Every leading heavyweight with the exception of Louis and James J. Braddock has taken potshots at Paulino disarranged features with great success since that night, and they missed only because the erstwhile woodchopper has been in Europe since the Negro made his professional bow and the current champion made such a drastic return from the Jersey wharves.

Paulino Has Done More Catching Than Hartnett

With durability his lone recommendation, Paulino has done more catching than Gabby Hartnett in 13 years of wearing warfare.

Without batting an eye, Mike Jacobs, the Broadway ticket speculator who is the Hearst newspapers' prize fight department's front man, tells you that the "fight" will draw $175,000, including radio and movie rights, if for no other reason than that Paulino has never been knocked off his pins.

Max Baer, who also was supposed to have a cast iron jaw, had the same distinction when he climbed upon the platform to tackle Louis.

Knowing what happened to the 26-year-old Baer, it isn't necessary to resort to clairvoyance to guess what is in store for Paulino, who is crowding 37.

So step right up boys, pay fancy prices, and see the erstwhile woodchopper chopped all the way down for the first time. The Christmas baskets must be filled, no matter how painful, and also the stocking of the principals, the Garden, Jacobs, and the Hearst newspapers' prize fight department.

Paulino has been repelled 10 times in the past six years. The Basque absorbed more punishment in concluding a three-bout series with Schmeling in the last start for both before 65,000 Nazis on July 7 of this year.

If It's to Be Old Man, Louis Had Best Shadow Box

Paulino hasn't improved any since Johnny Risko outgalloped him in 1927. George Godfrey took a decision from the Basque in 1928. Schmeling and Tuffy Griffiths found Paulino a slowly moving target in 1929. Risko made it a double in 1930, when Primo Carnera took the first of two verdicts from the former woodsman.

Tommy Loughran, on one good leg, proved much too much for Paulino in 1931, and King Levinsky, the smaller Mickey Walker, and the late Ernie Schaaf picked up where the Philadelphia Irishman left off in 1932. Paulino served as a filler-in for Carnera in 1933 and for Schmeling this year and last.

If Louis has to knock somebody out, the Hearst newspapers' prize fight department ought to pick on a younger man. If it is none too sure that Walter Neusel will get over Carnera at the Garden, Nov. 1, Tony Galento, the left hooker of the Jersey Oranges; or Charley Retzlaff, who knocked out Art Lasky and beat Ford Smith, the Montanan who cut up and stopped Lasky, would be much more acceptable than Paulino.

Louis could make an operation on Galento or Retzlaff quite painless, whereas the stout-hearted old Paulino is pretty sure to walk in and block with his face for at least a few of the advertised 15 heats.

If it is necessary to resurrect an old has-been like Paulino to keep him active, Louis had best shadow box until Braddock is ready to give him a whack at the title next fall, or until an opponent who is at least near worthy is developed.

In beating up a poor old man like Paulino, Louis easily might do the business he has rebuilt a vast amount of harm. It is not a contest in any sense, and would not be permitted.

Mother Nature sometimes puts male wings in the body of a female butterfly.

Paulino Uzcudun

Paulino Uzcudun, all dressed up in mask and big catching mitts . . . he'll need all that regalia—and a lot more—when Joe Louis starts slinging punches at him.

Pilney And Elser, Flops So Far, May Break Out Against Ohio Saturday

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Oct. 30 (AP)—Hang up the warning signals, Ohio State.

Andy Pilney and Don Elser, two human packages of football dynamite that ever have exploded, may be tossed from the Notre Dame bench and blow your "Scarlet Scourgers" to bits at Ohio stadium Saturday.

They are the "Joe Williamses" of Notre Dame, only they have amazed even their coaches by never doing what Jumping Joe does on Saturday afternoon.

The Notre Dame football careers of Pilney and Elser have been intriguing mysteries ever since they earned berths on the Irish elevens in the fall of 1933. And the mystery of it all is what keeps the two from running amuck every afternoon. Both have everything a football player needs to star, but for some strange, unaccountable reason they are probably the greatest disappointments in the gridiron history of the fighting Irish.

Both Are Very Fast

Take Elser: he came to Notre Dame from Horace Mann high, Gary, Ind., where he was rated one of the greatest football prospects in a decade. Six feet three in height and weighing 220 pounds, yet he has tremendous strength and speed. He holds both the shot put and low hurdles records in the Central Intercollegiate Conference and can run the century in less than 10 seconds. His physical equipment should make him one of the football greats of the nation, but for strange reasons he rides the bench when the first stringers are on the field for Notre Dame. Not a football coach, who has seen Elser in action, has failed to predict that some afternoon he will arise to greatness. Maybe, it'll be against Ohio State.

And Pilney: at Harrison Tech high, Chicago, Pilney was hailed as the peer of the immortal Red Grange years ago as he led his team to a national prep title with unstoppable drives, scoring as many as five and six touchdowns in one ball game. But at Notre Dame, except for an occasional flash, Andy has been ever a greater disappointment than Elser. Even Coach Elmer Layden can't understand it, explaining that possibly Andy is far too fast for his interference. His big trouble, strangely enough, is his blistering speed, which draws him away from his blockers. Often, Andy, who runs with his weight forward, falls over through the force of his own momentum.

Pilney, however, may start in Notre Dame's backfield against Ohio State. Against the Navy Saturday, he threw and completed four passes to sink the Middies.

STATE TO FACE UNBEATEN TEAM

Temple Will Have Advantage in Weight But Not in Speed

East Lansing, Oct. 30. (AP)—Those smack-em-down Spartans of Michigan State, whose fast charging, hard blocking aggressiveness has carried them thus far in the season with a single defeat, put new power in their blows today as they prepared to tangle with Temple's undefeated giants on foreign soil Saturday.

They pulled no punches in a defensive scrimmage session against a freshman team in the next to last practice before they board a train for the Philadelphia game.

The coaches placed emphasis on a rapid-fire diagnosis of the deceptive Temple attack, that puts nine men in a row on stride behind the center and line of scrimmage, the linemen shifting forward to the attack in a screen that conceals the backs' locations.

Warmbein In Shape

The Spartans who are the fastest and lightest team the school has produced, will be given away 30 to 35 pounds to the man when they face Temple.

Kurt Warmbein, whose shoulder injury bothered him last night, was throwing passes again tonight, and so was Tennessee Al Agett. They whipped passes high and low, long and short, to backfield mates and the ends, an indication of the trump cards Head Coach Charley Bachman plans to play on the aces that Pop Warner holds at Temple. Charley Halbert, diminutive sophomore, moved into quarterback berth tonight, to fill in for the injured Harrison Neumann. Neumann, who normally fills in for Dick Colina when a substitution is made, will be out for several days because of injuries suffered in the game with Washington last Saturday.

State will board a train here tomorrow afternoon and reach Philadelphia Friday in time for a limbering drill and a few final pregame looks at the Temple plays.

The Spartans will be aboard the same train that carries the University of Detroit, also to Philadelphia, where it will play Villanova.

Bath Sentenced To Fight Terris Hill

Los Angeles, Oct. 30 (AP)—The California athletic commission today "sentenced" Hank Bath, Fort Morgan, Colo., heavyweight to fight Terris Hill here November 12, with 15 percent of the proceeds to charity, as atonement for the recent fiasco at the Olympia auditorium here.

On that occasion Hill was not allowed to go into the ring on the grounds he was intoxicated, and Bath, Jack Kearns' new protege, met his sparring partner, Ralph Norwood, instead, knocking him out in one round.

The commission announced that the temporary suspension of Bath, Hill, Kearns and Jimmy Murray, manager of Hill, would be lifted as soon as Bath and Hill met in a regulation bout.

BUCKEYES FEAR AERIAL ATTACK

Notre Dame Frosh Gain Ground Consistently Against Varsity

Columbus, O., Oct. 30 (AP)—Coach Francis A. Schmidt of Ohio State fears Notre Dame's aerial attack in Saturday's classic football contest, if today's practice session of the Bucks is a criterion.

The Ohio gridders went through a long session on pass defense during the afternoon, and were still at it long after dark, under the flood lights.

Freshmen tossed aerials at the varsity from all kinds of formations, interspersing them with running plays. The Yearlings completed several of the heaves for good-sized gains, which brought from Schmidt the following advice to his varsity:

"You guys will have to do better than that, for them Notre Dames are better than our freshmen."

The regular Ohio starting line-up was in for the entire session. No substitutions were made, but the rest of the first-stringers were grouped closely around to absorb anything the coach had to say.

Wendt and Rees were at the ends, Hamrick and Harre at tackles, Smith and Karcher at guard, and Capt. Gomer Jones at center. Pincura was at quarter, Heekin and Boucher at the halves, and Antenucci at full. The practice was secret.

RAMBLERS WORRIED

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 30 (AP)—Freshmen, equipped with Ohio State plays as given to them by scouts, scored two quick touchdowns on the Notre Dame varsity today and picked up such large chunks of ground during an hour's scrimmage that the Irish coaches were plainly worried.

The Notre Dame regulars seemed unable to diagnose the fast Buckeye laterals.

Coach Elmer Layden announced a change in his plans of invasion today. Instead of remaining here until Friday night, the Irish will leave tomorrow night on a special train. A workout has been scheduled for 2 p. m. Friday at the Ohio State stadium in Columbus. The team will be quartered until game time at St. Charles college, just outside of Columbus.

Local fandom is going to turn out in large numbers to cheer the Notre Dame gridiron host. Three special trains will be run from here to Columbus Saturday morning, one of them carrying 1,000 students and a 90-piece Notre Dame band.

Ohio State was an 8 to 5 favorite to beat Notre Dame this afternoon when a flood of Columbus money hit South Bend.

"Red" Williams Stars On Marquette U. Frosh; Good Varsity Material

Milwaukee, Oct. 30.—"Who's that boy, that redhead there? He certainly can take it!"

There, in sum and substance, is the gist of sideline chatter to be heard almost any late afternoon at the Marquette university stadium where Frank Murray's sparkling Golden Avalanche is in scrimmage with the Hilltop's enterprising freshmen crew.

And the boy about whom they ask, that "redhead" who can take it, is none other than Brendan Williams, a newcomer from Escanaba, Mich.!

Coach Murray has had his longing eyes on young Williams all year, and requested Freshman Coach Walter Plewe to scrimmage him as much as possible. He is the big ground-gainer among the Marquette frosh backs, and has scintillated with his forward passing, his line-plunging and his open field running.

Recently, the Escanaba youngster achieved the distinction of being the first freshman to score a touchdown on the Marquette varsity in scrimmage in more than two years. Since then, he has scored on the big boys several times and has earned the respect of everyone on the field.

Peculiarly, another star in the freshman backfield is almost an identical double for the effervescent Williams. Though a bit smaller, Red Wray of Chicago also gives promise of developing into first class varsity timber.

Red Williams has enrolled as a freshman in the Marquette College of Liberal Arts and wants the folks back in Escanaba to know that everything is going "swell!" He is 18 years old, is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 175 pounds, and is fast—a 10 second man, in fact. An enterprising youngster, he is working his way through school with a National Youth administration appointment and a meal job.

An outstanding athlete at St. Joseph's high school, Escanaba, Williams was one of Coach George Carr's best bets in football and track. He weighed 170 pounds in his prep days.

KIPKE SIGHTS WOLVERINE WIN

Michigan Mentor Thinks Charges May Beat Pennsylvania

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 30 (AP)—The University of Michigan varsity looked so well against freshmen using Pennsylvania plays this afternoon that Coach Harry Kipke was almost ready to announce that the Wolverines have a chance of winning Saturday's intersectional football game here.

At the close of a lengthy defensive scrimmage the coach told the boys "You're looking better, and you aren't licked yet—be here early for practice tomorrow." The varsity looked considerably better against Pennsylvania power as demonstrated by the freshmen than it did last week trying to stop Columbia.

Kipke continued experimenting today, trying to find a line combination which will work without Johnny Viergever, his star left tackle. Viergever is about counted out of the Penn game because of leg injuries.

Today Jesse Garber, formerly a reserve guard, was used at left tackle. Tiny Wright was at center again. On defense Kipke had Garber at right guard and Wright at left tackle. The Michigan starting line Saturday on offense may be Patenelli and Valpey, ends; Garber and Kramer, tackles; Bissell and Sobsey, guards; Wright, center. With these seven in the game, the defensive lineup would be aPtanelli and Valpey, ends; Wright and Kramer, tackles; Bissell and Garber, guards, and Sobsey, center.

Michigan's starting backfield will be the same as last week-end, Bill Renner at quarterback, Everhardus and Smithers, halfbacks, and Sweet, fullback.

Upper Peninsula Traffic Survey Will Be Directed Here

Announcement was made yesterday in Washington by Fred Taylor, director of the new $905,-00 traffic survey agency, that Escanaba had been selected for the survey headquarters for the upper peninsula.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, and Don Kennedy, business manager of the state highway department, were in Washington this week discussing plans for the statewide survey in Michigan. It is believed that Escanaba was chosen for the headquarters due to the fact that the upper peninsula offices of the state highway department are located here.

Several hundred relief and nonrelief persons will be employed in Michigan on the project. The survey will include a complete inventory of Michigan's highway system, a speedometer record measurement of every mile of rural road and trunk line through the cities, observations of the kind of surfacing of the roads and their condition, a traffic count and fiscal study.

Meeting Of VFW Friday, City Hall

Arrangements for participation in the massed parade of veterans on Armistice Day will be discussed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at their next meeting, called for Friday evening, Nov. 1, at the city hall.

Flags of all veterans' organizations in Escanaba, Gladstone, Rapid River and Nahma are to be grouped in the Nov. 11 parade, and the marchers will include unorganized veterans as well as those affiliated with the VFW, DAV, American Legion, and Spanish American war veterans.

The proceeds of the first carnival, which amounted to $1,224.24, were used as the first installment of the athletic field and each one after that except the last, which was used in the purchase of band uniforms, was turned into the stadium fund. The proceeds of tonight's show will go towards the building of the proposed new field house.

Mr. Newton told of the tremendous amount of valuable advertising the upper peninsula has gained as a result of the promotional efforts of the Wolverine Conservation association, such as the smelt jamboree, the Isle Royale national park and Tahquamenon Falls state park projects.

Deer Hunting Contest

E. C. Voght, former member of the Michigan conservation commission, in his brief address, attributed the success of the organization to its unselfish attitude in promoting projects that are of benefit to the entire peninsula and not only Delta county.

President Hammar announced that a deer hunting contest would be conducted for Wolverine Conservation association members during Nov. 15 to 30, and that five attractive prizes would be offered to those bringing down the largest bucks.

Gust Soderberg was introduced as the chairman of the membership campaign committee. Canvassers are asked to make daily reports of the number of members signed up to Secretary Walter Nelson, Telephone number 101.

Resolutions Adopted

The following resolutions were adopted at the meeting:

1. Resolved, that the cordial thanks of the Association are hereby extended to the Michigan Department of Conservation for the liberal planting of fish in Upper Peninsula waters this year, and for the many other ways in which it has cooperated with this Association.

2. Resolved, that the members of this Association in meeting assembled October 30 do hereby thank the U. S. Forest Service for its continued cooperation in conservation matters.

3. Resolved, that this association does hereby place itself squarely on record as favoring the establishment of a state park at Tahquamenon Falls with a minimum of delay, and pledges its cooperation with all responsible agencies to that end.

4. Resolved, that the Association hereby extends hearty thanks to the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and Escanaba Chamber of Commerce for cooperation in the various conservation matters, and expresses its desire and willingness to work with the Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce in all conservation projects undertaken for the good of this territory.

5. Resolved, that the Association hereby acknowledges with thanks its indebtedness to the newspapers of the district, state and country for their assistance in publicizing and bringing to a successful issue our conservation objectives of the past year.
